Norway Seizes 5 Soviet Vessels

FINDS OUT TERMS — Mrs. Iva Ikuko Toguri D'Aquino (above), better known as "Tokyo Rose," the honey-voiced Japanese radio broadcaster during World War II, leaves federal probation office in Chicago. Mrs. D'Aquino yesterday got the terms of her probation from Benjamin S. 10,000-Ton Ship, Fish Trawlers Inside Boundary

OSLO, Norway, Jan. 30 (AP)—Norwegian navy men today boarded and seized five Russian fishing vessels caught within Norway's four-mile fishing boundary. They said they had to fire warning shots before one Russian captain would give up his ship.

The Soviet vessels include a 10,000-ton depot ship and four trawlers. They were taken by two Norwegian torpedo boats sent out to investigate reports that a big Russian fleet was operating off the west coast fishing port of Alesund.

The torpedo boats surprised the Russians fishing. A Norwegian newsman said he counted 57 Russian trawlers, ranging in length from 30 to 40 feet, in the fleet. The torpedo boats said they were able to capture only five of the vessels because of a shortage of men. The torpedo boats carry a 15-man crew and they had to put three men aboard each captured vessel.

Navy headquarters here said tonight larger Norwegian naval units were speeding to the scene.

Russians Dump Equipment
An eyewitness account of the capture was given by a reporter from the government-controlled Norwegian Broadcasting System (NRK). The newsman, en route to the fishing grounds for a broadcast, ran into the Russians just as the Norwegian torpedo boats showed up.

He said the Russians cut loose their equipment and hit for the open sea.

Most of the 57 Soviet vessels he counted were far inside the four-mile boundary, the newsman added. One was reported only a mile from the coast. The newsman said most of them had huge loads of herring on board.

Pay Upheld For Essential Jobs
On Outside Time
WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Workers must be paid for essential labor performed before and after their principal production job, the Supreme Court ruled today.

In two separate decisions written by Chief Justice Warren, the court unanimously held such payments do not come within the ban of the 1947 portal-to-portal law.

One of the cases involved butchers who had to spend preliminary time sharpening their knives; the other concerned a need for bathing at the close of a work day.

Warren said Congress did not intend to deprive employees of wage-hour law benefits for activities before and after regular hours when they are "an integral part of and indispensable to their principal activities."

Congress passed the portal-to-portal law to overcome the 1946 Supreme Court decision which resulted in workers' suits totaling some six billion dollars.

That decision said workers were entitled to be paid for activities such as walking to work places, washing, and changing clothes. It outlawed all portal-to-portal pay suits except those covered by wage contracts or by industry custom.

Today's decisions applied specifically to certain employees of the Cumberland Battery Co., Nashville, Tenn., and the King Packing Co., Nampa, Idaho.

In the battery case, the court said employees who handle dangerously caustic and toxic materials must be paid for the time it takes them to take a shower and change clothes at the end of their tour of duty.

"It would be difficult to conjure up an instance where changing clothes and showering are more clearly an integral and indispensable part of the principal activity of the employment than in the case of these employees," Warren said.

In the other case, the court said butchers employed by the King Packing Co. must be paid for the time they spend each day sharpening their knives.

Benson Under Fresh Attack In Congress

Burdick Suggests
Benson And Others
"Wear Muzzles"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson came under fresh fire in Congress today, with Rep. Burdick (R-ND) suggesting that Benson and some other Cabinet members should "wear muzzles."

Demands for Benson's resignation arose last week after publication of a letter, signed with his name, applauding a magazine article which called the American farmer "our pampered tyrant."

Benson's apologetic statement Friday that the letter to the editor of Harper's magazine was a staff "boner" added to the uproar on Capitol Hill.

But Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) told the Senate the secretary's frank acknowledgment of the error showed courage and should persuade critics to withdraw their demands that he resign.

"Hoof And Mouth Disease"
Burdick issued a statement suggesting that some members of President Eisenhower's Cabinet are suffering from "hoof and mouth disease."

"Every time they open their mouth," Burdick said, "they seem to put their foot in it."

He said the President should insist that these men wear muzzles, although he said he doubted whether muzzles "would stop the appearance of letters in the magazines under the name of a secretary who never saw or read or signed the publication."

Benson's "boner" letter was written after Harper's published an article by John Fischer entitled, "The country slickers take us again." Benson's note was in reply to a letter written by Horace A. Knowles, the magazine's public relations representative, saying he thought Benson might like to see the article "in support of your position."

Morse Rejects "Alibi"
And the department letter said: "I have read the article by John Fischer in the December issue of Harper's with a great deal of interest. It is excellent."

Sen. Morse (D-Ore) said he thought the article was "a pretty accurate reflection of Mr. Benson's agricultural policy," and that he didn't propose to accept the secretary's "alibi" at its "face value." He said it was "interesting" that the writer's views had been associated with those of Benson.

Senate To Limit
Gas Bill Debate
WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Senate agreed late today to limit debate on the natural gas bill starting next Monday.

The agreement, worked out among friends and foes of the controversial measure, was accepted without opposition as the debate entered its third week.

The agreement conceivably could bring the hotly fought measure to a showdown vote that day.

The agreement will limit debate to an hour on each amendment, with up to three hours of discussion to precede the vote on final passage. The time will be divided equally between opponents and proponents.

Sen. Pastore (D-R.I.), one of the leaders in the fight against the bill, joined in the agreement. He said a check of senators on his side of the fight showed that the speeches they now plan "can be fitted quite comfortably into the remainder of this week."

Three Children Die
When Home Burns
PENDLETON, Ore., Jan. 30 (AP)—Three children burned to death in their beds today while their father was helping two of his sons deliver newspapers.

Five other children and the mother were not at home. She only Saturday had given birth to their 10th child and was still in the hospital.

The fire, in the unincorporated community of Rieth, five miles west of here, destroyed the Chester O'Neal home and killed Phyllis Jean O'Neal, 8; Carol Jane O'Neal, 7; and Richard Dennis O'Neal, 6.

The children's grandfather, George Powers, tried to rescue them but was beaten back, the hair burned from his head.

CAMBRIDGE, Jan. 30 (AP)—The body of Isaac Wilson, 49, Negro, was recovered from Cambridge Creek early today just off the White and Nelson Packing House pier.

Wilson, employed on a dredge boat, had been missing since last Friday night. The body was found by Deputy Sheriff Joseph Klupp and Captain Brice Kinnamon of the Department of Tidewater Fisheries.

No Defense Plea Entered By Trio In Abortion Case

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30 (AP)—Surprise pleas of nolo contendere (no defense) were entered today by the three defendants in the abortion death of a 22-year-old food chain heiress, but the judge who'll impose sentence tomorrow said he considered them "the same as guilty."

The pleas were entered by Milton and Rosalie Schwartz, in whose North Philadelphia apartment Mrs. Doris Jean Silver Ostericher died last Aug. 24, and Mrs. Gertrude Silver, 49, mother of the dead girl.

Face Prison And Fine
The Schwartzes—he's a 42-year-old bartender; she's a beautician—pleaded no defense to a single charge of "abortion resulting in death."

Mrs. Silver, her tear-stained face drained of color as she stared at the floor, mumbled "nolo contendere" to a charge of "accessory before the fact of abortion" as she stood before Quarter Sessions Judge Vincent A. Carroll.

The maximum sentence on each charge is 10 years in jail and a $6,000 fine.

The three defendants also were indicted on charges of abortion and conspiracy, but a spokesman for the district attorney's office indicated these will be merged with the single count on which they pleaded when they are sentenced tomorrow.

Perjury Trial Later
The Schwartzes, additionally, are accused of perjury in connection with statements they made at the dead girl's inquest last September. Their trial on this charge will be held later.

The dead girl was the wife of Earl M. Ostericher, a Miami Beach Fla., motorcycle policeman she had married in a surprise elopement to Georgia on June 24 after a whirlwind, story-book romance. Ostericher was in the courtroom today.

Ike's Name Will Be On Jersey Ballot

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 30 (AP)—Republican State Chairman Samuel L. Bodine said today President Eisenhower's name will appear on the New Jersey primary election ballot unless he orders it withdrawn by March 8.

The State GOP Committee began circulation of petitions to put Eisenhower's name on the April 17 ballot under a 1952 primary preference law, which has been dubbed a "popularity contest."

Under the 1952 law, Eisenhower's consent to have his name appear on the ballot is not required. The name would appear separately from those of candidates for delegates to the national convention.

The names of any other GOP candidates also could appear, giving the voter a preference but not binding the delegates.

Brazil Gets New President Today
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 30 (AP)—President-elect Juscelino Kubitschek has picked a predominantly Conservative Cabinet to help him run South America's biggest and most populous nation. He announced his selections tonight, on the eve of his inauguration.

"Respect for law will be the religion of my government," he told a news conference.

Five of his 11 Cabinet ministers are holdovers from the interim government which has held office pending his inauguration. These include Foreign Minister Jose Carlos Macedo Soares.

Kubitschek flew to the capital earlier today.

The preinaugural calm was in sharp contrast with the situation three months ago. Then the army overthrew an interim government suspected of trying to block Kubitschek's inauguration. But tempers have calmed, and this city of three million has taken on a carnival air for tomorrow's ceremonies.

There was no sign of tension. The only troops noted have been soldiers going to and from the airport as honor guards for visiting dignitaries.

The last of the foreign delegations also arrived by air today. They included U. S. Vice President Richard Nixon, the ranking foreign visitor, who heads a delegation of 17.

Chou Threatens
To Get Formosa
By Use Of Force
TOKYO, Tuesday, Jan. 31 (AP)—Red China's Premier Chou En-Lai only a few hours before the Eden-Eisenhower talks in Washington spoke Monday of preparing for "war if necessary" to take U. S.-protected Formosa.

But he mentioned on an equal footing the duty of getting the Nationalist stronghold "by peaceful means," if possible.

Chou's speech to Red China's political consultative conference was broadcast over Peiping radio and heard in Tokyo just as Britain's Anthony Eden reached the United States.

Timed With Ike-Eden Talks
The speech apparently was timed with the opening of Washington meetings between President Eisenhower and Eden, who is expected to recommend concessions for Red China.

Chou said the Chinese Nationalists must choose between surrendering to Peiping with "an opportunity to be forgiven by the people of their motherland" or cooperate with the United States along a path leading to "momentary doom."

Chou's speech also was timed with the latest peace offensive from Moscow. He endorsed Soviet Premier Bulganin's proposal for a 20-year friendship pact with the United States. President Eisenhower replied to the offer by saying "a stroke of the pen cannot bring peace." Chou said Bulganin's offer "cannot be pushed aside by an off-hand rejection."

Talks "Dragging Out"
Chou complained that the "prolonged dragging out" of the Red China-U. S. talks in Geneva "prevents a solution to tension in the Taiwan area." At Geneva, Red China is demanding that U. S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson discuss lifting the embargo on strategic shipments. The United States wants Red China to renounce use of force in the Formosa area and return the remaining arrested U. S. civilians.

Diplomatic Relations
QUITO, Ecuador, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Foreign Ministry announced tonight Ecuador has established diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia.

Roosevelt, Johnson said, took over the presidency when the country was groping "in a sense of hopelessness" and his leadership "left us with a feeling of courage" and "of buoyancy."

Britain Backs Eisenhower's Policy Stand

President, Prime Minister Also Take Up Mideast Issues

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Prime Minister Eden pledged Britain's full support today to President Eisenhower's statement of policy that Russia should ease world tensions by "deeds, not words."

Eden personally assured Eisenhower of Britain's stand at the first of a series of White House meetings called to coordinate British and American policies.

A conference spokesman, speaking for both delegations, said Eisenhower and Eden reached full agreement in their appraisal of Russia's recent flurry of diplomatic, economic and political moves against the West.

Bulganin's Bid Rejected

This joint British-American view was stated Saturday, to Eden's satisfaction, the spokesman said, when Eisenhower replied to a message from Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin. The President politely but firmly turned down Bulganin's bid for a 20-year friendship treaty with the United States. He called on Bulganin to prove Russia's peaceful intent by settling specific East-West problems, such as German unity and disarmament, and arranging more contacts between the Free and Communist worlds.

Today's White House meetings focused mainly on the critical Middle East where half a dozen separate crises have allowed Russia to thrust its influence into the region.

Specifically discussed, it was disclosed, were the bitter dispute between Israel and the Arab countries and Britain's quarrel with Saudi Arabia, as well as other issues in an area which includes difficulties over Cyprus, Egypt, the Baghdad defensive alliance and French difficulties in North Africa.

Narrow Differences
The conference spokesman reported that in his view the differences are very narrow in American-British policy in this region. He declined to predict, however, whether this would result in a joint British-American program of action.

The first Eisenhower-Eden meeting, at luncheon, ranged not only into Russia's moves but reviewed Western European unity measures such as the Atlantic Pact and the organization for European economic cooperation, it was said. The meeting also covered new moves being planned, such as the European regional atomic project, to strengthen this cooperation.

Eisenhower skipped the second, more formal meeting between Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and some dozen aides. He retired to his bedroom to rest, as has been prescribed by his doctors to help him recuperate from his September heart attack.

The President, after his nap, joined the group two hours later. After the President's return, there was thus a third meeting lasting another hour.

Sen. Johnson Pays Tribute To Roosevelt
WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Johnson paid tribute to the late Franklin D. Roosevelt today as "one of the giants of all times."

Speaking in the Senate on the 74th anniversary of the birth of the former president, Johnson said that while history's ultimate verdict is yet to be written, no one can doubt that Roosevelt was a man of "courage and conviction."

Roosevelt, Johnson said, took over the presidency when the country was groping "in a sense of hopelessness" and his leadership "left us with a feeling of courage" and "of buoyancy."

Mollett Will Present
Cabinet Slate Today
PARIS, Jan. 30 (AP)—Premier-designate Guy Mollet drafted today a governmental platform designed to put his Republican Front cabinet into office without Communist votes.

Mollet, a Socialist, is scheduled to present his slate of 13 ministers and 22 undersecretaries to the National Assembly tomorrow with an appeal for a vote of confidence which would formally invest him with political power.

Sources close to Mollet said his platform will stress, among other points, reinforcement of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance and a new drive for Western European unification.

Plagued By Ice, Weariness, Pilot Ends Flight At Paris

PARIS, Jan. 30 (P)—Capt. William F. Judd winged across the North Atlantic in treacherous winter weather at the controls of a single-engine plane but ice and fatigue forced him to abandon today an effort to fly nonstop from New York to Cairo.

He sat down at an airport near Paris after 24 hours and 11 minutes in the cockpit of his gleaming silver and yellow "Star of the Red Sea."

Judd, 40-year-old native of South Haven, Kan., was forced by ice-encrusted wings and six hours of tiring instrument flying to end his flight at Toussus-le-Noble airport.

A veteran Trans World Airlines pilot, Judd followed virtually the same 3,600-mile course Charles Lindbergh did nearly 29 years ago. Lindbergh made his summertime

Chou Threatens To Get Formosa By Use Of Force

TOKYO, Tuesday, Jan. 31 (P)—Red China's Premier Chou En-Lai, only a few hours before the Eden-Eisenhower talks in Washington, spoke Monday of preparing for "war if necessary" to take U. S.-protected Formosa.

But he mentioned on an equal footing the duty of getting the Nationalist stronghold "by peaceful means," if possible.

Chou's speech to Red China's political consultative conference was broadcast over Peiping radio and heard in Tokyo just as Britain's Anthony Eden reached the United States.

Timed With Ike-Eden Talks
The speech apparently was timed with the opening of Washington meetings between President Eisenhower and Eden, who is expected to recommend concessions for Red China.

Chou said the Chinese Nationalists must choose between surrendering to Peiping with "an opportunity to be forgiven by the people of their motherland" or cooperate with the United States along a path leading to "momentary doom."

Chou's speech also was timed with the latest peace offensive from Moscow. He endorsed Soviet Premier Bulganin's proposal for a 20-year friendship pact with the United States. President Eisenhower replied to the offer by saying "a stroke of the pen cannot bring peace." Chou said Bulganin's offer "cannot be pushed aside by an off-hand rejection."

Talks "Dragging Out"
Chou complained that the "prolonged dragging out" of the Red China-U. S. talks in Geneva "prevents a solution to tension in the Taiwan area." At Geneva, Red China is demanding that U. S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson discuss lifting the embargo on strategic shipments. The United States wants Red China to renounce use of force in the Formosa area and return the remaining arrested U. S. civilians.

Diplomatic Relations
QUITO, Ecuador, Jan. 30 (P)—The Foreign Ministry announced tonight Ecuador has announced diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia.

Speaking in the Senate on the 74th anniversary of the birth of the former president, Johnson said that while history's ultimate verdict is yet to be written, no one can doubt that Roosevelt was a man of "courage and conviction."

Roosevelt, Johnson said, took over the presidency when the country was groping "in a sense of hopelessness" and his leadership "left us with a feeling of courage" and "of buoyancy."

Sen. Johnson Pays Tribute To Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (P)—Senate Democratic Leader Johnson paid tribute to the late Franklin D. Roosevelt today as "one of the giants of all times."

Mollett Will Present Cabinet Slate Today

PARIS, Jan. 30 (P)—Premier-designate Guy Mollet drafted today a governmental platform designed to put his Republican Front cabinet into office without Communist votes.

Mollet, a Socialist, is scheduled to present his slate of 13 ministers and 22 undersecretaries to the National Assembly tomorrow with an appeal for a vote of confidence which would formally invest him with political power.

Sources close to Mollet said his platform will stress, among other points, reinforcement of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance and a new drive for Western European unification.

Britain Backs Eisenhower's Policy Stand

President, Prime Minister Also Take Up Mideast Issues

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (P)—Prime Minister Eden pledged Britain's full support today to President Eisenhower's statement of policy that Russia should ease world tensions by "deeds, not words."

Eden personally assured Eisenhower of Britain's stand at the first of a series of White House meetings called to coordinate British and American policies.

A conference spokesman, speaking for both delegations, said Eisenhower and Eden reached full agreement in their appraisal of Russia's recent flurry of diplomatic, economic and political moves against the West.

Bulganin's Bid Rejected
This joint British-American view was stated Saturday, to Eden's satisfaction, the spokesman said, when Eisenhower replied to a message from Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin. The President politely but firmly turned down Bulganin's bid for a 20-year friendship treaty with the United States. He called on Bulganin to prove Russia's peaceful intent by settling specific East-West problems, such as German unity and disarmament, and arranging more contacts between the Free and Communist worlds.

Today's White House meetings focused mainly on the critical Middle East where half a dozen separate crises have allowed Russia to thrust its influence into the region.

Specifically discussed, it was disclosed, were the bitter dispute between Israel and the Arab countries and Britain's quarrel with Saudi Arabia, as well as other issues in an area which includes difficulties over Cyprus, Egypt, the Baghdad defensive alliance and French difficulties in North Africa.

Narrow Differences
The conference spokesman reported that in his view the differences are very narrow in American-British policy in this region. He declined to predict, however, whether this would result in a joint British-American program of action.

The first Eisenhower-Eden meeting, at luncheon, ranged not only into Russia's moves but reviewed Western European unity measures such as the Atlantic Pact and the organization for European economic cooperation, it was said. The meeting also covered new moves being planned, such as the European regional atomic project, to strengthen this cooperation.

Eisenhower skipped the second, more formal meeting between Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and some dozen aides. He retired to his bedroom to rest, as has been prescribed by his doctors to help him recuperate from his September heart attack.

The President, after his nap, joined the group two hours later. After the President's return, there was thus a third meeting lasting another hour.

Pay Upheld For Essential Jobs On Outside Time

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (P)—Workers must be paid for essential labor performed before and after their principal production job, the Supreme Court ruled today.

In two separate decisions written by Chief Justice Warren, the court unanimously held such payments do not come within the ban of the 1947 portal-to-portal law.

One of the cases involved butchers who had to spend preliminary time sharpening their knives; the other concerned a need for bathing at the close of a work day.

Warren said Congress did not intend to deprive employees of wage-hour law benefits for activities before and after regular hours when they are "an integral part of and indispensable to their principal activities."

Congress passed the portal-to-portal law to overcome the 1946 Supreme Court decision which resulted in workers' suits totaling some six billion dollars.

That decision said workers were entitled to be paid for activities such as walking to work places, washing, and changing clothes. It outlawed all portal-to-portal pay suits except those covered by wage contracts or by industry custom.

Today's decisions applied specifically to certain employees of the Cumberland Battery Co., Nashville, Tenn., and the King Packing Co., Nampa, Idaho.

In the battery case, the court said employees who handle dangerously caustic and toxic materials must be paid for the time it takes them to take a shower and change clothes at the end of their tour of duty.

"It would be difficult to conjure up an instance where changing clothes and showering are more clearly an integral and indispensable part of the principal activity of the employment than in the case of these employees," Warren said.

In the other case, the court said butchers employed by the King Packing Co. must be paid for the time they spend each day sharpening their knives.

Rain, Sleet, Snow Pelt Eastern U. S.

(By The Associated Press)

A storm which dumped as much as 10 inches of snow on the Midwest moved rapidly northeastward Monday.

The low pressure area was accompanied by snow or rain as it moved across Pennsylvania and New York State. Heavy snow fell in some areas, particularly in the vicinity of Lakes Erie and Ontario.

Snow also occurred in the Upper Ohio River Valley, parts of New York and Pennsylvania, and in most of Michigan.

Rain, sleet and heavy, wet snow was common in New York State. Buffalo had three inches of snow in midafternoon. Rochester, Syracuse, Utica and Glens Falls reported two inches each. Up to six inches was forecast.

Rain was reported elsewhere in New York and Pennsylvania, and in southern New England states. Mostly fair weather was reported elsewhere except for showers in the South Atlantic states and snow flurries in the northern Rockies.

The storm through Sunday night had dropped up to 10 inches of snow in east central Kansas and five to six inches in other parts of Kansas, helping the winter wheat crop.

AEC Reports Testing Of Nuclear Engine Designs For Aircraft Is Now Under Way

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (P)—The Atomic Energy Commission reported today that testing of nuclear engine designs for aircraft is now under way at the AEC's Idaho experimental plant.

A semiannual report of the commission, covering developments of the last six months of 1955, said the aircraft reactors program was "accelerated."

Construction of the big and intricate aircraft engine facility at the AEC's national reactor testing station near Arco, Idaho, was started more than two years ago. The commission report said building of the initial test facilities had been completed "and some test work completed."

Operating contractor for the facility is the General Electric Co.

Actual ground tests of various designs of atomic power plants intended for aircraft propulsion will be carried out at the Arco site.

At least one preliminary experiment has been under way for more than six months. A Consolidated-Vultee B36 bomber has been testing a modified form of reactor in a series of tests. The reactor provides no power, but is understood to be operated at a point sufficient to test out radiation shielding, cooling systems, the fitting of the engine's configuration and weight into a big aircraft and other features.

The AEC also announced that "Project Sherwood"—the long-range effort to tame the fierce hydrogen bomb and make it produce peaceful power as was done with the nuclear fission bomb—has been "greatly expanded" since 1951.

But, the commission cautioned, "Many years of intensive theoretical and experimental effort will be required before the first prototype of an operating thermonuclear machine is developed."

It pointed out some examples of the problem of harnessing the fusion process. Included was the question of how to create a temperature of several million degrees to bring about nuclear fusion, and hold that heat long enough to provide continuing, controlled fusion. The present hydrogen bombs are fired by the multimillion-degree temperatures — as hot as the sun — but that temperature exists for only a split-second before the bomb detonates.

The commission did not mention another obvious problem — creating a metal that would resist such terrific heat.

Senate To Limit Gas Bill Debate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (P)—The Senate agreed late today to limit debate on the natural gas bill starting next Monday.

Speculation Walsh Will Run Increases

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30 (AP)—Known to me their wishes that I be a candidate for nomination as United States senator.

"Naturally, anyone would be highly honored to serve all of the people of Maryland and I am very grateful to everyone who has thought of me in this connection."

"However, I am still in the first year of a four-year term as mayor of Baltimore and the people of this city have entrusted to me a continuation of our vast program of public improvements."

"Foremost among the things which Baltimore needs and wants are a port authority, a civic center, a comprehensive and accelerated program of urban renewal, vital important highway projects, large scale development of our water resources, more schools, expansion of the Walters Art Gallery and many other improvements."

"I consider it to be my duty as mayor to lead the effort for achievement of all these worthwhile and necessary things."

"Moreover, I intend to devote every ounce of my energy and every moment of time required to bring settlement to the transit strike just as soon as humanly possible."

West Va. House Votes Today On Tax Measures

Four Tax Bills To Raise Money For Teachers' Salary Increase

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 30 (AP)—Four tax bills to raise money for a teachers' salary increase cleared amendment stage in the House today without substantial change in their $5,400,000 annual revenue estimate.

They will come up for passage votes tomorrow along with the salary increase bill for which they would provide the major portion of the cost. The pay bill would give public school teachers salary increases totaling $6,400,000 a year.

The Senate held another routine session that lasted only a few minutes. It had nothing on its calendar. Some of the Senate's time was taken up with a joint session in the House chamber for a presentation by officers of Mountain-Enterprise Boys' State.

In session for two hours and 14 minutes, the House gave lengthy consideration to the "package plan" bills for schools, all introduced by Speaker Flannery.

A three-year expiration was written into the biggest tax bill in the plan, a measure to raise $2,200,000 a year by repealing the 5 per cent discount now allowed under the gross sales tax law.

Del. Watson (D-Marion) sponsored the amendment which would make the repeal effective only for three fiscal years. At the end of that time, the 5 per cent discount would be restored automatically, unless an intervening session of the Legislature voted otherwise.

The amendment was adopted 53-39. Watson tried unsuccessfully to put the same amendment into a bill to increase the tax on horse racing betting pools from 4 to 5 per cent. He was voted down 61-34.

Also beaten, after fairly long debate, was another amendment which Del. Davis (D-Kanawha) sought to write into the racing bill at the request of an absent member, Del. Francis (D-Kanawha).

As introduced, the bill not only would increase the tax on betting pools, but would also allow the state to collect half the "breakage," which consists of the odd cents between the computed betting payoff and the actual payoff to the next lowest multiple of 10 cents. The tracks now retain all of the breakage.

Total estimated annual revenue from the bill is $1,075,000. Allowing the tracks to continue to retain all of the breakage would reduce the total by an estimated $425,000.

Approximately 1½ million dollars of the package plan revenue would come from a bill to double the license tax on out-of-state corporations and extend the corporate license tax to all insurance firms.

Top railroad men left their desks to help operate the transportation systems through the three big bottlenecks—Spokane, Ogden and San Bernardino. Ridgway wrote in the third of a series of articles for the Saturday Evening Post. The Army learned the weak spots and where to correct them. Then the former Army chief of staff commented:

"Two years later, when the Pacific fleet had been temporarily knocked out at Pearl Harbor, and men and munitions were pouring across the country, this knowledge came in very handy."

Ridgway, in referring to his pre-war assumption that the Pacific fleet would be destroyed at Pearl Harbor, said "criticism of this plan was instantaneous and vociferous."

W. Va. Penitentiary Warden To Resign

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 30 (AP)—The first major shakeup in Gov. William C. Marland's official family since allegiances were defined in the Democratic primary developed today.

It was the announcement from Moundsville that Warden Orel J. Skeen of the state penitentiary is resigning from the post he has held since 1947.

Skeen confirmed his determination to be relieved of duty no later than March 15 after published reports in Charleston that he would submit a letter of resignation this week.

La Prensa To Reappear

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 30 (AP)—Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz said tonight his newspaper La Prensa will begin publishing again Friday morning. This will be five years and eight days from the time the outspoken daily was silenced by the regime of Juan D. Peron, ex-dictator.

Under present rules the Senate can go into executive session at will. All appointments by the governor subject to confirmation are acted upon behind closed doors, and the vote and argument is not made public.

Goodman contended that action on nominees to important state jobs is as much public business as action on legislation.

Mother, Baby Burned As Fire Levels Home

FREDERICK, Md., Jan. 30 (AP)—A mother and her baby son were burned early today when fire leveled their home on U. S. 15 between Catocin Furnace and Thurmont.

Mrs. Lelia M. Miller, 30, was in satisfactory condition in Frederick Memorial Hospital. Her son 9-month-old son Ronald was in "fairly good condition."

The Millers fled from the home with the baby and a 27-month-old daughter Janet Louise.

Ferguson Named Judge

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Homer Ferguson, who has been a judge, a senator and an ambassador, is going to become a judge again.

President Eisenhower nominated the former Michigan senator today to a 15-year-term on the Court of Military Appeals. He has been ambassador to the Philippines since last March.

Lawyer Gives 50 Pounds Of Pennies To March Of Dimes

MANSFIELD, Mass., Jan. 30 (AP)—The heaviest contribution to the March of Dimes in this section of Massachusetts was no hefty that it was reported in pounds—not dimes or dollars—today.

In fact, hours after last year's chairman, lawyer Ernest L. White made the contribution—which he'd been saving up since last January—this year's chairman, Mrs. Walter L. Fieri, hadn't figured out how much it was.

White's gift was all the pennies he'd received during the year, and it added up to 50 pounds which filled three quart milk bottles and a cookie jar.

H. L. Mencken's Ashes Will Be Interred Today

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30 (AP)—Because no one has ever produced a "suitable burial service for the admittedly damned" as H. L. Mencken once suggested, the famed author's ashes will be laid to rest simply and unobtrusively tomorrow. Mencken died Sunday morning.

"Such a libretto for the inescapable last act would be humane and valuable. I renew my suggestion that the poets spit upon their hands and confect it at once," he wrote.

Mencken's brother August said tonight just a few old friends and the immediate family will gather at a "mortician's place" at 1 p.m.

The surviving brothers, August, and Charles Mencken, of Pittsburgh, and a sister, Anna Gertrude, make up the family. The old friends include Hamilton Owens editor in chief of the Sunpapers; Frank Kent, political columnist for the Sun; James M. Cain, the author, now residing in Hyattsville; Louis Cheslock and W. Edwin Moffett, surviving members of the old Saturday Night Club over which Mencken used to preside, and Siegfried Weisberger, former proprietor of the "Peabody Book Shop" in Baltimore.

August said either he or Owens would address the small assembly briefly.

Five Boys Get Life For Robbery-Killing

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 30 (AP)—Five youths—aged 15 to 20—were sentenced to life imprisonment today for a murder-robbery that netted them little more than two cents apiece.

The quintet—Richard P. Pellon, 20; George S. Patenaude, 19; Donald C. Magnuson, 18; Robert K. St. John, 17, and Robert F. Weston, 15—pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree. The life sentence was mandatory.

They were accused of the fatal beating of an unemployed painter, T. J. (Tex) Holder, 46, whose battered body was found in Crompton Park, last July 26.

John E. Nepheves, 70, who was with Holder at the time, told police their attackers only got 12 cents.

No Positive Clue Found To Blaze In Which 10 Died

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30 (AP)—Investigators combing through the charred shell of a social hall reported today they found no positive clues as to the cause of the flash fire that snuffed out the lives of 10 women.

The 10 were among the thousand or more attending an oyster roast sponsored by the St. Rose of Lima Catholic Church at Arundel Park Hall in south Baltimore yesterday. About 200 were injured.

(An oyster roast is a social affair identified with the Chesapeake Bay area. Oysters are prepared and served in virtually every form—except roasted. Normally held on Sunday afternoons, it is a popular method of fund-raising for charitable, political and social organizations.)

Eye-witnesses said a small blaze first was noticed in the area of the kitchen, and

D'Alesandro Not Senate Aspirant

Speculation Walsh Will Run Increases

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30 (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro announced today that he would not be a candidate for the Democratic party's nomination to the U. S. Senate.

"I consider it to be my duty as mayor to lead the effort" for completion of a program of civic improvements, he said.

He pointed out that he was still "in the first year of a four-year term of office."

D'Alesandro's announcement left George P. Mahoney as the only major candidate in the race but increased speculation that former Judge William C. Walsh of Cumberland or former U. S. Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman might enter the contest before the Feb. 27 deadline.

The primary elections are to be held May 7.

The mayor said after issuing his formal statement, "This is no time for me to be in politics." He acknowledged that the transit strike was a "major factor" in his decision.

He said in his statement: "Many friends in Baltimore and throughout the state have made

Eye-witnesses said a small blaze first was noticed in the area of the kitchen, and an attempt was made to extinguish it. Suddenly the flames reached up to the wooden ceiling and spread quickly the length of the building.

Then the lights went out. The place became choked with black, heavy smoke.

The crowd rushed for the two main exits. The wide door at the far end was never opened. Windows were smashed, and many crawled out the jagged openings, cutting themselves.

The 10 charred bodies were found in one corner, near the unopened door. They were so mutilated that morgue officials would not permit relatives to see them.

Hughes Forged His Credentials

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Paul H. Hughes today admitted he forged his credentials as a McCarthy committee investigator, but contended he was pushed into the deception by Clayton Fritchey, deputy chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Hughes is charged with perjury. Among other things, he is accused of having used forged documents to pass himself off as an investigator for Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's (R-Wis.) Senate Permanent Investigating Subcommittee.

Hughes went to McCarthy's enemies and sold alleged inside information on "illegal activities" of McCarthy's committee, the government says. It called this "one of the most fantastic schemes ever conducted in the annals of political intrigue."

Fritchey already has testified as a prosecution witness that he examined Hughes' alleged inside information on McCarthy over a period of months and thought Hughes was truthful, but broke with him in June, 1954, because, Fritchey said, "facts as originally charged by Hughes were not being nailed down."

Taking the stand in his own defense, Hughes 35, admitted he forged or made up all the documents in the case except his own papers from the Air Force.

Comedy Star Of '52 GOP Convention Will Be Back

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Let others worry about who will be the most likely presidential candidates when the conventions roll around this summer.

To less dedicated observers, who don't mind having their politics spiked with a jigger of humor, the big news today is:

Senor Marcelino Romani of Puerto Rico, will be back.

Remember Romani?

Who in the great hall in Chicago on the night of July 9, 1952—or watching same on television—ever could forget him?

Most of the speeches, whose clichés were so laboriously pounded into place by their perspiring authors, quickly were at peace in a well-deserved oblivion.

But Romani, merely by asking a few questions, remains strongly and hilariously etched in memory. No other Republican provided the badly needed comic relief. Not even the Democrats, who usually go in for such things, came close.

You may remember how the delegation was in an uproar over which Georgia delegation should be seated—the one favoring Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower or the one favoring Sen. Robert A. Taft?

As the argument wore on, the Grand Old Party got rough. Names were called. Tom Dewey, twice a GOP presidential candidate, was loudly booed.

Here Romani, a small, pot-bellied ex-judge, broke the tension. After Puerto Rico had cast three votes no, Romani rose to ask:

"Mr. Chairman, I call for the call roll of the delegation."

Incredibly, it took almost as long to call Puerto Rico's three names as it did New York's 36.

A typewriter is a poor instrument to recreate the confusion, the accent and inflection of Romani's voice, the delight of the delegates at the complete foul-up, but this excerpt should help:

Chair: "The secretary will read the name of the alternate to the delegate from Puerto Rico?"

Secretary: "Mrs. Providencia Ramos de Villamil."

Cheers from delegates at secretary's bold attempt to pronounce Spanish.

Romani: "What is the name please?"

Gavel bangs unnoticed in attempt to restore order.

Chair: "The secretary will read the name of the alternate again."

Secretary: "Mrs. Providencia Ramos de Villamil."

Romani: "He is not here. It doesn't matter. She is not here."

Triplet Sons Born To Mother Of 12

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 30 (AP)—A divorced mother of 12 children became the mother of triplet sons today.

The new arrivals brought the family of Mrs. Huldah Vos, 39, to 11 boys and three girls. She gave birth to twins last year. One girl died of pneumonia at the age of eight months 13 years ago.

Mrs. Vos said she and her husband, Peter, were divorced last Nov. 25.

The hospital reported the triplets were born within a 7-minute span, and weighed from 5 pounds 7 ounces to 5 pounds 14 ounces. All were full-term babies, the hospital said, and so healthy they did not require incubator treatment.

Mrs. Vos was too excited to name the infants immediately.

Ridgway's Plan Came In Handy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said tonight that two years before Pearl Harbor he prepared the plans for a training maneuver based on assumption that the Pacific fleet would be knocked out at that naval base.

He said he was told (he did not specify by what officials) that this basic assumption was "fantastic."

However, the then Col. Ridgway received the backing of the War Department for conducting the logistics training plan, which was to test the Army's ability to get troops and cargo trains across the continent to cope with a theoretical landing of three enemy armies on the West Coast.

Top railroad men left their desks to help operate the transportation systems through the three big bottlenecks—Spokane, Ogden and San Bernardino. Ridgway wrote in the third of a series of articles for the Saturday Evening Post. The Army learned the weak spots and where to correct them. Then the former Army chief of staff commented:

"Two years later, when the Pacific fleet had been temporarily knocked out at Pearl Harbor, and men and munitions were pouring across the country, this knowledge came in very handy."

Quillan was arrested last Nov. 28 on charges of robbing the Rev. dollar Co. at Taneytown and the Taneytown High School.

Marines' Traffic Patrol Starts To Pay Dividends

QUANTICO, Va., Jan. 30 (AP)—An 8-man Marine Corps traffic patrol on U.S. Route 1 from Woodbridge to Fredericksburg is beginning to pay off.

The patrol was instituted by Quantico Provost Marshal Donald D. Pomerleau. Nine Quantico marines died and 88 were injured in traffic accidents in 1955, most of them on the patrolled stretch.

Pomerleau said a study disclosed there had been only seven injuries and no fatalities on the Quantico base of 57,000 acres itself. One marine fatality and 15 injuries occurred in area far from the base. The remainder, eight fatalities and 66 injuries, took place on the 29-mile stretch from Woodbridge to Fredericksburg.

Pomerleau was given permission by Marine authorities and Virginia State Police to patrol Route 1 for violations by military personnel. The patrol started Oct. 15.

Two weeks later, Lt. Cmdr. Russell Sanders put his Potomac River Naval Command Armed Services Police on Shirley Highway from Woodbridge to the Potomac River.

Here is the record as reported by Quantico officials:

From the time the patrol began and until the end of 1955, Quantico marines have been involved in only

Plans Completed For Taming Potomac

Forecasting "the dawn of a new era for the Potomac River" from West Virginia to the Chesapeake Bay, Congressman Harley O. Staggers (D-W. Va.) yesterday announced in Washington that plans have been completed for a series of nine dams in the Potomac headwater area.

The plans, now under study by the Army Corps of Engineers, will provide flood protection for the West Virginia and Maryland low-land areas near the Potomac.

In making the announcement of the giant project, Rep. Staggers said "These dams will not only make the Allegheny mountain area of West Virginia a great recreational playground for the people of the Greater Washington metropolitan area, but will guarantee a uniform supply of water to Washington and nearby areas and be the first step in cleaning up the Potomac pollution."

Rep. Staggers, who introduced the legislation approved in the last session of Congress which provided for the basic survey of the Potomac by the Corps of Engineers, said he has been informed that the actual survey work will be started within a short time.

"This," said the West Virginia Congressman, "is the first step toward the nine-dam project which will mean the dawn of a new era for the Potomac River area."

Looking ahead toward the authorization of the nine-dam project, Rep. Staggers said, "The Allegheny mountain area of West Virginia would be turned into one of the most beautiful recreational areas in the East with the addition of these dams. There would be fishing, boating, and swimming on the lakes formed by the dams.

"Here is a project which will not only give flood relief and provide water storage for the District of Columbia, but will invigorate a great section of my State of West Virginia, part of which is a distressed area.

"Recreation will become the number one industry as thousands from all over Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, and Pennsylvania take advantage of the new wonderland opened up by this project."

Complainants Request Followed In Sentence

Two Allegany Grove teenagers, fined a total of $1,200 on six separate motor vehicle violations last Friday, and then sentenced to indefinite terms in the Maryland Training School for Boys on eight criminal charges, had their sentences and fines suspended.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason, who tried the boys on the motor vehicle violations, said yesterday that the fines and sentences were suspended on the recommendation of the persons who suffered the damages.

Magistrate Mason said the boys paid approximately $333 in damages, and that the 15 persons who suffered the damages requested that the boys be placed on probation and not sent to the Training School.

Gate Proposal Referred To City Attorney

A B&O Railroad plan to install automatic flashing light signals and gates at Knox, Valley and Franklin Streets was referred to City Attorney Thomas B. Finan yesterday by the Mayor and Council.

The action was taken without further comment by city officials who had discussed the setup with railroad officials last week.

A letter from T. J. Klauenberg, Cumberland Division superintendent, pointed out cost of the installation would be $100,000, borne by the railroad, and would take about a year to complete.

Should the city desire gates coordinated with any traffic signals at Knox, Valley and Pear for vehicular or pedestrian traffic at their intersection with Henderson Avenue, the city could install the system and the railroad would repay the cost, Klauenberg said. Future maintenance, however, would be borne by the city.

The letter also asked repeal of a section of the code which is inconsistent with installation of such signals and gates, along with written approval by the city engineer attesting to proper installation and operation of the signals and gates.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said he was referring to the B&O the various protests from United Mine Workers, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Brotherhood of Maintenance and Way Employees, Railway Machinists' local, B&O Federation No. 7, Local 26 Rubber Workers Union and Division 1110 Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America.

The railroad could explain the signal and gate program to the unions, the mayor said.

Commissioners John J. Long and William V. Keegan voiced concern about the jobs of men employed as watchmen at the crossings after the signal system went into effect. Long asked if some would be out of a job, and Keegan said that while he thought the signals a progressive step he wants to know first what will happen to the watchmen.

Tour With Choir

Two Cumberland students at Gettysburg (Pa.) College are on tour with the school choir. They are Norma D. Grimes, 313 Footer Place, and Nelson E. Zapf, 416 Goethe Street.

'Tommy Mont Day' Is Proclaimed

The celebration of "Tommy Mont Day" in Cumberland this coming Sunday was made official yesterday in the form of a proclamation by the Mayor and Council.

Mont, a former outstanding athlete at Allegany High School, was appointed head football coach at the University of Maryland this month and will be guest of honor at the eighth annual Dapper Dinner Sunday evening in the Knights of Columbus Home.

A framed copy of the proclamation will be presented to Mont by the city.

Mayor Roy Eves and the four members of the council all said they would make an effort to attend the Sabbath testimonial.

C&O Parkway Campaign Is Backed By City

Further action was promised again yesterday to offset an adverse decision by the Department of Interior on the C&O Canal Parkway.

Members of the Mayor and Council voiced support of the project after John J. Mitchell, 118 Winton Place, submitted replies he had received from legislators whose support he had solicited.

Mitchell wrote to Senator J. Glenn Beall (R-Maryland), of Frostburg, who replied that having originated the project he was "terribly disappointed when adverse action was taken by the Department of Interior."

"However, I am not going to give up after having put so much time and effort into it, and you may be assured that I will continue to fight for this worthwhile undertaking."

Another letter from Rep. Dewitt S. Hyde said there is "no question but what we need the parkway in Western Maryland and I feel that if we can get this parkway between Hancock and Cumberland in the not too distant future, we will have accomplished a great deal." He assured Mitchell of his cooperation.

Mitchell also wrote Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, and received a reply from his administrative assistant, Arthur C. Perry, who said Johnson was out of town at the time but would be appraised of Mitchell's letter on his return.

Commissioner William H. Buchholz praised Mitchell's action and said "If we had more citizens like him we might get something."

Buchholz added he would never give up in trying to get the parkway project through, and that every means should be exerted to have the Interior Department decision reversed.

"Every citizen should rise up and let them know how he feels about it," the commissioner added.

Commissioner William V. Keegan said the project "means plenty to Cumberland," and Commissioner John J. Long agreed, adding that since this is an election year something could be done about it.

Agricultural Chemicals Conference Is Planned

Afternoon topics will include pest control on vegetables, insect and disease control on ornamentals and a general discussion on spray residues and other chemical subjects. Speakers will be T. L. Bissell, Dr. Paul Santelmann and Dr. George Langford.

Muddy Street Complaint Is Heard By City

A Montreal Avenue resident yesterday rapped the muddy condition of the street caused by temporary measures taken during the wait for start of construction on the Industrial Boulevard in South End.

Mildred Spicer told the Mayor and Council "It is not fair that we have to wade in mud just because you are waiting for the Industrial Boulevard."

She said the street had been scraped and "river bottom" placed on it. The muddy condition is getting worse, she added, especially during present rain and snows.

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz said it is considered a waste of money to put a permanent improvement in the area, since the city does not know what the State Roads Commission plans to do. However, he said, some temporary measures can be taken.

The complainant pointed out, however, that the more "river bottom" is placed on the street, the worse the condition becomes. She asked about cinders but was told the city is in short supply and must stockpile what it has for emergency work during snowfalls. Buchholz said the same situation exists elsewhere and the city is unable to have cinders shipped here.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said he had contacted G. Bates Chaires, district SRC engineer, and had been told the city would be informed of SRC plans as soon as they were made available.

A number of routine matters were approved by council yesterday.

Services of Robert T. Regester, consulting engineer for the rehabilitation of filters and construction of contact basins at Lake Gordon, are to be continued at a rate of $533.33 a month until the project is completed. The services are not to exceed five months without being subject to renegotiation.

Council ordered checks issued to city employees Wednesday for the second period in January.

Purchase of easements for the flood control project were approved as follows: Buchanan Lumber Company; James Crom and Paul N. Harris; Martha B. Wolford; John R. Treiber et ux and Tobias Lazarus et ux; Allegany Building Loan and Savings Company; Edwin F. and Grace L. Knippenberg; Frank R. Blaul, and Bertha M. Wittig, the latter as a result of reappraisal of property for which an easement had previously been approved.

Payment of $5,925 to Regester as the eleventh payment for advisory supervision and inspection of the sewage treatment plant was approved.

Also passed was payment of $181.50 for Frank N. Weber for 15½ days inspection of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company water line.

Council Boosts Salaries Of Pence And Hitchcock

Salaries of the recreation director and superintendent of Evitts Creek Water Company were increased yesterday by orders approved by the Mayor and Council.

In renewing the contract of Robert E. Pence, recreation director, council approved a salary hike from $5,320 to $6,060. The contract is for the period January 1, 1956 to January 1, 1959. It was recommended by the Cumberland Recreation Board.

Mayor Roy W. Eves pointed out the new salary scale for Pence is not quite what it would have been had the general 10 per cent increase granted city employees been applied.

Council passed a recommendation by the Evitts Creek Water Company to amend his contract and increase the salary of George M. Hitchcock, superintendent, from $6,500 to $7,200. This is the only increase granted the position since it was established in January 1948.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long said while his statement is "not a reflection on anybody," he recalled that Hitchcock originally had asked for a contract to run three years and that part of the $6,500 salary — $2,500 — was for his duties as smoke abatement engineer. The smoke post has since been abolished.

Long continued by suggesting that before the next budget meeting, Hitchcock study the job classification report and straighten out salaries paid men working for the water firm. He said some doing the same work, or classed as doing the same work, have different pay scales. He added some also receive "extras." He later said that by "extras" he meant living quarters.

In another action yesterday council created and placed the position of assistant to the recreation director under civil service. The position pays $200 a month and had previously been appointive.

Mayor Eves said the Civil Service Commission will conduct an examination for the post.

Forecasting "the dawn of a new era for the Potomac River" from West Virginia to the Chesapeake Bay, Congressman Harley O. Staggers (D-W. Va.) yesterday announced in Washington that plans have been completed for a series of nine dams in the Potomac headwater area.

The plans, now under study by the Army Corps of Engineers, will provide flood protection for the West Virginia and Maryland low-land areas near the Potomac.

"This," said the West Virginia Congressman, "is the first step toward the nine-dam project which will mean the dawn of a new era for the Potomac River area."

Two Allegany Grove teenagers, fined a total of $1,200 on six separate motor vehicle violations last Friday, and then sentenced to indefinite terms in the Maryland Training School for Boys on eight criminal charges, had their sentences and fines suspended.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason, who tried the boys on the motor vehicle violations, said yesterday that the fines and sentences were suspended on the recommendation of the persons who suffered the damages.

Magistrate Mason said the boys paid approximately $333 in damages, and that the 15 persons who suffered the damages requested that the boys be placed on probation and not sent to the Training School.

Gate Proposal Referred To City Attorney

A B&O Railroad plan to install automatic flashing light signals and gates at Knox, Valley and Franklin Streets was referred to City Attorney Thomas B. Finan yesterday by the Mayor and Council.

The action was taken without further comment by city officials who had discussed the setup with railroad officials last week.

A letter from T. J. Klauenberg, Cumberland Division superintendent, pointed out cost of the installation would be $100,000, borne by the railroad, and would take about a year to complete.

Should the city desire gates coordinated with any traffic signals at Knox, Valley and Pear for vehicular or pedestrian traffic at their intersection with Henderson Avenue, the city could install the system and the railroad would repay the cost, Klauenberg said. Future maintenance, however, would be borne by the city.

The letter also asked repeal of a section of the code which is inconsistent with installation of such signals and gates, along with written approval by the city engineer attesting to proper installation and operation of the signals and gates.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said he was referring to the B&O the various protests from United Mine Workers, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Brotherhood of Maintenance and Way Employees, Railway Machinists' local, B&O Federation No. 7, Local 26 Rubber Workers Union and Division 1110 Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America.

The railroad could explain the signal and gate program to the unions, the mayor said.

Commissioners John J. Long and William V. Keegan voiced concern about the jobs of men employed as watchmen at the crossings after the signal system went into effect. Long asked if some would be out of a job, and Keegan said that while he thought the signals a progressive step he wants to know first what will happen to the watchmen.

'Tommy Mont Day' Is Proclaimed

The celebration of "Tommy Mont Day" in Cumberland this coming Sunday was made official yesterday in the form of a proclamation by the Mayor and Council.

Mont, a former outstanding athlete at Allegany High School, was appointed head football coach at the University of Maryland this month and will be guest of honor at the eighth annual Dapper Dan dinner Sunday evening in the Knights of Columbus Home.

A framed copy of the proclamation will be presented to Mont by the city.

Mayor Roy Eves and the four members of the council all said they would make an effort to attend the Sabbath testimonial.

C & O Parkway Campaign Is Backed By City

Further action was promised again yesterday to offset an adverse decision by the Department of Interior on the C&O Canal Parkway.

Members of the Mayor and Council voiced support of the project after John J. Mitchell, 118 Winton Place, submitted replies he had received from legislators whose support he had solicited.

Mitchell wrote to Senator J. Glenn Beall (R-Maryland), of Frostburg, who replied that having originated the project he was "terribly disappointed when adverse action was taken by the Department of Interior."

"However, I am not going to give up after having put so much time and effort into it, and you may be assured that I will continue to fight for this worthwhile undertaking."

Another letter from Rep. Dewitt S. Hyde said there is "no question but what we need the parkway in Western Maryland and I feel that if we can get this parkway between Hancock and Cumberland in the not too distant future, we will have accomplished a great deal." He assured Mitchell of his cooperation.

Mitchell also wrote Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, and received a reply from his administrative assistant, Arthur C. Perry, who said Johnson was out of town at the time but would be apprised of Mitchell's letter on his return.

Commissioner William H. Buchholz praised Mitchell's action and said "If we had more citizens like him we might get someplace."

Buchholz added he would never give up in trying to get the parkway project through, and that every means should be exerted to have the Interior Department decision reversed.

"Every citizen should rise up and let them know how he feels about it," the commissioner added.

Commissioner William V. Keegan said the project "means plenty to Cumberland," and Commissioner John J. Long agreed, adding that since this is an election year something could be done about it.

Muddy Street Complaint Is Heard By City

A Montreal Avenue resident yesterday rapped the muddy condition of the street caused by temporary measures taken during the wait for start of construction on the Industrial Boulevard in South End.

Mildred Spicer told the Mayor and Council "It is not fair that we have to wade in mud just because you are waiting for the Industrial Boulevard."

She said the street had been scraped and "river bottom" placed on it. The muddy condition is getting worse, she added, especially during present rain and snow.

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz said it is considered a waste of money to put a permanent improvement in the area, since the city does not know what the State Roads Commission plans to do. However, he said, some temporary measures can be taken.

The complainant pointed out, however, that the more "river bottom" is placed on the street, the worse the condition becomes. Payment of $5,925 to Regester as the eleventh payment for advisory supervision and inspection of the sewage treatment plant was approved.

Council Boosts Salaries Of Pence And Hitchcock

Salaries of the recreation director and superintendent of Evitts Creek Water Company were increased yesterday by orders approved by the Mayor and Council.

In renewing the contract of Robert E. Pence, recreation director, council approved a salary hike from $5,520 to $6,060. The contract is for the period January 1, 1956 to January 1, 1959. It was recommended by the Cumberland Recreation Board.

Mayor Roy W. Eves pointed out the new salary scale for Pence is not quite what it would have been had the general 10 per cent increase granted city employees been applied.

Council passed a recommendation by the Evitts Creek Water Company to amend his contract and increase the salary of George M. Hitchcock, superintendent, from $6,500 to $7,200. This is the only increase granted the position since it was established in January 1948.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long said while his statement is "not a reflection on anybody," he recalled that Hitchcock originally had asked for a contract to run three years and that part of the $6,500 salary — $2,300 — was for his duties as smoke abatement engineer. The smoke post has since been abolished.

Long continued by suggesting that before the next budget meeting, Hitchcock study the job classification report and straighten out salaries paid men working for the water firm. He said some doing the same work, or classed as doing the same work, have different pay scales. He added some also receive "extras." He later said that by "extras" he meant living quarters.

In another action yesterday council created and placed the position of assistant to the recreation director under civil service. The position pays $200 a month and had previously been appointive.

Mayor Eves said the Civil Service Commission will conduct an examination for the post.

A Tribute To Our Neighbors!

Those people who live next door or down the street a way or around the corner. Do you know them? Do you put yourself out just a little sometimes to make their lives more pleasant? A cheery "hello," a genial smile, an invitation to come in and sit awhile. These are the tiny miracles that make neighborliness blossom and grow into a thing of strength and beauty. Charity, they say, begins at home. Similarly, it is from your home that nextdoorhood emanates. Let's all be good neighbors. Remember, there is no tax on your investment in friendship!

Arab-Israel Conflict And Talks With Eden

Agreement on Middle East policies may well be the principal purpose of Sir Anthony Eden's visit to this country.

Here are some reasons: Britain views stability in the Middle East as vital to her life-line to India and Australia. Britain has special interests through the whole area, notably in Jordan and Iraq which are bound to Britain by treaties. The British have troops in Somaliland and Aden, still in the empire. Britain retains military rights in Egypt, garrisons forces in Libya, exerts military influence on the Sultan of Muscat. Up to 90 per cent of the oil used in Britain comes from Iran, Iraq, and Kuwait.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd on January 24, the day on which he and Sir Anthony departed for this country, proposed that United Nations personnel be established in the demilitarized zones on Israeli-Arab frontiers. This would be done "with the approval of both sides."

Neither President Eisenhower nor Secretary of State Dulles can be expected to welcome in an election year a proposal that could result in stationing U. S. troops in a tinder-box. Dulles on January 25 was reported to have told Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban that a decision on U. S. sale of arms to Israel—to counterbalance Soviet bloc deliveries to the Arabs—might be weeks or months in the offing. On the same day the President was insisting on U. S. neutrality.

"America must be friends with both sides, and by doing so use all of its good offices every day of the year to promote some kind of friendship, at least cooperation between the two sides of the quarrel."

On the surface, at least, Dulles and Eden are not far apart on the Arab-Israeli problem. Dulles on August 26 put forth a three-point plan. It called for: 1 development of the Jordan Valley, in part to provide more arable land for Arab refugees, with U. S. loans for the development and for compensation to the refugees from Israel; 2 guarantee of boundaries by "formal treaty engagements" in which the U. S. and other nations would participate, preferably under U. N. sponsorship; 3 U. S. help in reconciling boundary disputes.

Sir Anthony on November 9 offered to mediate between Israel and the Arab states. Israel rejected the offer on November 15, arguing that the British proposals "intended to cut slices from Israel's territory."

Also on November 15 President Eisenhower repeated the U. S. offer of "formal treaty engagements." Israel and the Arab states have yet to endorse the Dulles plan; the U. S. has yet to endorse specifically Eden's offer of mediation.

Foreign Minister Moshe Sharet as premier of a caretaker government in Israel, on October 19, ruled out proposals that Israel embark on a "preventive" war against the Arab states. On January 22, just three days after the U. N. Security Council had unanimously voted to censure Israel, the Israeli embassy in Washington announced that Israel was willing to enter any kind of peace talks on the sole proviso that there be no preconditions.

When President Eisenhower feels that he has to make a decision concerning himself or the presidency to hold for five years, he takes in too much territory. No man can know what might happen to him physically or mentally for so long a period. Eisenhower is beset by the problem that he has had a coronary occlusion which may or may not be fully healed; his heart has been strained but it may also have been strengthened by the enforced rest of his illness and convalescence.

Suppose we elect Joe Doakes, Republican or Democrat. And let us say that during the presidency Joe Doakes develops a tumor on the brain; or let us say that he suffers from diabetic comas; or let us say that he gets one of the numerous degenerative illnesses that come to men in their 60's. The United States has had plenty of presidents, has suffered from their illnesses and even their demises and the United States has survived.

The point of the matter is that we are paying too much attention to the physical man. The United States did not suffer when Coolidge succeeded Harding, nor, I am sure, when Truman succeeded Roosevelt. Eisenhower managed to live through his coronary, but had it been otherwise, nothing of the caliber of a historic disaster would have occurred had Richard Nixon succeeded him by constitutional processes because the same people who actually govern us now would have governed us then. As it is, Eisenhower and Nixon will run in 1956 and we shall face the same physical facts as we do now.

Too much emphasis is being paid to Ike's coronary and too little to his mind and spirit. I know all that he went through with his coronary; mine is much the same type. And I am sure that he had to listen to the same propaganda that I listen to about avoiding pressures, etc., etc., but the question is not whether a man lives an extra year or two, a cabbage, but whether in his last years, before he joins his ancestors and accounts to his Maker, he devotes himself in mind and spirit, selflessly to the high opportunities for good that have been graciously put in his hands to do.

Sure, the doctors these days know much about keeping one alive, but for what? To count dates on the calendar, to celebrate birthdays, to reminisce to children and grandchildren on one's past greatness, or to grouse over other men's conduct and to say or even think how much better I could have done it? Mere living is not sufficient when useful and even high living is possible. And surely that is always possible, whether one is President of the United States or just a fellow doing his best in whatever mold life has cast him.

And so, why not stop worrying about Ike's coronary and ask the simple question we ask every four years—is this man entitled to re-election on his record? Then a campaign can be fought out on the subject, the pros and cons being unaffected by his coronary. Just as illness should not be a disadvantage, so it should not be a protective advantage. It would seem to me that 1956 should be an open campaign, in the course of which every subject should be fully debated because many issues are climatic.

Ike's coronary need no more be a political issue than somebody's broken leg or concussion from an automobile accident. The probability is that the United States will survive his coronary with less disadvantage than it did Woodrow Wilson's tumor.

"This Arrived A Few Days Before You Did"

Selfish Politics Befuddles Foreign Policy Of U. S.

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—These are dangerous times in the world. The news dispatches read strangely like those that appeared just a few months before World War II broke out.

There are the same sinister moves by aggressor governments. There is the same reckless partisanship inside the national legislatures of the democracies thus encouraging the aggressor government to think that peace-at-any-price is the underlying policy of all political parties in America, France and Britain.

There is the same duplicity behind the scenes as the aggressor builds up armament while piously proclaiming peaceful motives.

Same Cry Today

There is the same cry that the democracies are unprepared militarily and that they are sacrificing guns for butter ever as the plaintive call comes for more air power to match the enemy's growing strength.

Perhaps the foregoing will strike a note of reminiscence to Sir Anthony Eden, England's prime minister, who this week confers here with President Eisenhower. For the famous British diplomat played a conspicuous role in the pre-war years and saw the gathering storm from the inside of the Chamberlain government before he resigned dramatically as foreign secretary in February 1938. Ahead lay the appeasement of Munich in September 1938 and then all-out war in September 1939.

Few men have had such an intimate experience with the chicanery of totalitarianism, particularly the Russian maneuvers and tricks, as has Anthony Eden. Few in parliamentary life know so well how foreign policy can be made a football of politics to the detriment of a nation.

Many Americans probably have forgotten that as late as six months before the war broke out Prime Minister Chamberlain, already disillusioned about the empty promises given by Hitler at Munich, proposed that a draft law be passed but was met by the bitter opposition of Clement Attlee and the Socialist Labor party. Attlee on April 27, 1939, told the House of Commons:

"We are opposed to conscription. It will weaken the country. If there is to be a gesture, it should be the conscription of wealth. There is no need for conscription so far as men are concerned. The navy and the air force are up to strength and there are no arms for more men."

All this has a familiar ring—political parties seeking partisan advantage by playing on the emotions of an uninformed citizenry. Here was Chamberlain, on the "brink of war," struggling to make a show of firmness to Hitler only to be frustrated by a party in opposition that was strong enough to threaten defeat at an election perhaps on a peace-at-any-price basis if the prime minister didn't accede.

Co-meant Still True

It was this state of affairs which caused Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary until 1939 and later a member of the war cabinet, to write in retrospect:

"The truth was forced upon us that until the people were faced with the stark dangers of actual war, it was impossible to introduce war methods of production and organization, and to form a national government for a single purpose."

These same comments could be written today about the divided government in the United States. One party controls Congress and the other party controls the White House.

Despite the strong voice of Senator George, many Democrats in Congress keep up a constant sniping which inevitably must encourage the shrewd men in the Kremlin to believe that this is the time for them to muddy the waters here. Hitler used the same strategy with his "peace" offers just before each act of aggression. In fact, he proposed and Chamberlain signed in 1938 a statement saying the two nations had agreed "never to go to war with each other."

The latest effort of the Democrats is to put the Eisenhower administration in an embarrassing position because it has rejected the same kind of offer—a treaty proposed by Bulganin to eliminate war between Russia and America. Some of the Democratic spokesmen in Congress are saying about the President's reply that they were "not consulted on details"—as if direct negotiation with foreign governments was ever a constitutional prerogative of Congress—while other Democrats say they don't like "the way it was handled."

Frostbite Is Easier To Prevent Than To Treat

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

The insulated rubber combat boot proved effective in preventing frostbite in Korea. But, to give adequate protection, it had to be used in combination with good foot hygiene. This included personal cleanliness, frequent changing of socks, and keeping the feet dry.

Frostbite is easier to prevent than to treat. It requires protective clothing, good sense, and mature judgment. Zero temperatures are not always a prerequisite, as higher readings plus prolonged ex-posure and dampness are almost as hazardous.

When the tissues are frozen, ice crystals form in the spaces between the cells, leading to dehydration, tissue injury, and circulatory impairment. In ordinary frostbite, the damage is less severe and usually stems from circulatory embarrassment. The blood flow is sluggish and clots are likely to form.

Frostbite is graded like burns. The damage is measured after the exposed parts are rewarmed. A first degree frostbite consists of redness and puffiness of the skin. In second degree frostbite, blisters are present and in third degree, gangrene exists. Complete freezing (fourth degree) usually destroys all the tissues in the area, including the bone.

The parts are numbed until thawing begins. This is followed by tingling, aching, cramping, redness, swelling, and discoloration. During the past decade, treatment has been revolutionized. Rubbing the affected region with snow is taboo and rapid, instead of gradual rewarming, has come into vogue.

The frostbitten parts are placed in water varying from 95 to 105 degrees F., which is as hot as most people can stand. The popularity of this remedy stems from

Grass Seed Shortage Adds Problem To Plan For Creation Of Soil Bank

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Ezra Taft Benson, harried, harassed secretary of agriculture, has even more worries than the public knows about.

After the Eisenhower farm message was sent to Congress it was believed all would be calmer on the hectic farm front. That, however, has not been the case. Certain kinks have been discovered by those reading the fine print of the lengthy farm message and they now have senators sore and Benson almost tearing his hair.

Kink No. 1 has to do with the soil bank program by which farmers will set aside part of their land for a long period and plant it in grass or trees.

First problem that's arisen is that there won't be enough grass seed to plant the soil bank. The Eisenhower plan is to take 25,000,000 acres out of production. However, it's now discovered that there is only enough grass seed in the U. S. to plant 15,000,000 acres and this seed is largely adaptable for east of the Mississippi where water is more plentiful. Grass seed needed for arid areas west of the Mississippi is more difficult.

Reason for the scarcity is that one of the first things Benson did as secretary of agriculture was to remove the price supports on grass seed. So, many farmers stopped producing.

No Trees Either

However, if a farmer decides to plant trees instead of grass, it will take him two years to get them.

This is because Benson in 1953 abolished all Agriculture Department nurseries, then part of the soil conservation program. He didn't think the federal government should be raising trees, so he turned the nurseries over to the states. Many states didn't have the funds and wouldn't accept the trees. Some others accepted them and let the nurseries grow up in brambles.

So it will take some time to get enough young trees to make any dent on the soil bank.

Kink No. 2 pertains to the acreage reserve. This is the quickie plan by which farmers would get some money this year from setting aside surplus acreage. It's different from the soil bank, which is the long-term plan to set aside surplus land.

The quickie acreage reserve was supposed to be financed by selling surplus farm commodities on the domestic market.

But Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, indefatigable champion of the farmer, sat up until two a. m. one night studying the fine print of Ike's farm message, and next day pointed out to other senators that the sale of our surplus crops would depress the entire farm commodity market. Such a farm drop would be far worse than no acreage reserve at all.

Immediately a whole row of Republican senators from farm states descended on Benson, protested that he could not dump these surpluses on the domestic market. So he retreated.

Since then Benson and staff have been burning the midnight oil trying to figure out how they can pay the cost of the acreage reserve. They face the fact that Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey won't give Benson any more money, for this would unbalance Humphrey's ambitious plans for balancing the budget.

Somehow or other, Ezra has to figure out how he is going to pay money to farmers with no money. You can understand why it's no fun to be secretary of agriculture.

Who's Steering Who?

Meyer Kestbaum, head of Hart, Schaffner and Marx, the famed clothing manufacturers, and a Republican, was paying tribute to Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, Democrat at the testimonial dinner at which Morse was given the Sidney Hillman award.

Kestbaum was appointed by Eisenhower as White House assistant on government reorganization and was telling what it was like, as a businessman, to be in Washington.

"It reminds me of a log jam up in the Northwest when spring comes and the logs break up and start tumbling down the river," he said.

"There are ten thousand ants on each log and each ant thinks he's steering."

Dulles-Go-Round

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee would probably subpoena the tape recording which Life magazine made of the famed Dulles interview except for Senator George of Georgia. He's chairman of the committee and won't go for it. . . . Though George is held in great esteem, he's sometimes called by colleagues "the soft underbelly of the Democratic party."

. . . The Life reporter who handled the interview was suddenly yanked out of Washington by Life editors and sent to France until the Senate shooting dies down. . . . Real fact is that Publisher Luce himself ordered the Dulles interview. The Washington Life Bureau had nothing to do with it except to see Mr. Dulles. . . . What Luce didn't know was that Look magazine had printed almost the same brink-of-war story last year, only it was attributed to Eisenhower, not Dulles. . . . Life reporters were fearful that Dulles might deny their interview. They remembered that he had let them down on a back-ground press meeting two years before. But they had used a tape recorder one year ago when they interviewed Dulles for a front-page cover story in Time appointing Dulles "man of the year" and having broken Dulles in on tape with this earlier flattery, it was easy to get him to agree to the recent tape recording. Now he wishes he hadn't.

Decline Of The West?

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

Behind the meeting between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Eden, there is a single, dominant, all-important fact which is the real theme and motive of the talks in the White House.

In brief, Britain is now in very real danger of final, decisive defeat in her courageous struggle to maintain her standings as a major power, second partner in the Western alliance and chief ally of the United States.

The danger arises from Britain's heavy dependence on what may be called semi-colonial income sources. This dependence has lately been obscured by British slogans like "export to live" and "trade not aid." The slogans have suggested that the British economy no longer depends upon assets acquired in the old imperialist days.

Dependent On East

But in fact Britain's jugular vein is not in the busy industrial midlands or in London's smoky suburbs. It is still in the Middle and Far East, and to a lesser degree in Africa. On the average, the Middle and Far East together produce no less than 40 per cent of Britain's annual hard currency income.

A single, highly vulnerable complex of raw material sources, the tin mines and rubber plantations of Communist-bedecked Malaya, earn a good 16 per cent of Britain's annual dollar revenue.

A single obscure individual, the Sheikh of Kuwait, provides a substantial proportion of all the new capital annually available to the sterling area, by the simple act of investing his $250 million a year of oil revenues in London.

The loss of the British oil investment in the Middle East would bring British industry to a grinding halt, and the rest of Western Europe would be almost equally hard hit.

These facts mean in turn that the Communists in Malaya and the Soviet diplomats and agents in the Middle East are boldly probing for Britain's jugular vein, when they seek to expel British influence from these areas that were once so safely controlled by British imperial power.

Narrow Margin Now

The margin in Britain is already so narrow that London is currently in the grip of an extremely serious monetary crisis, in the midst of a business boom. The loss of almost any of the assets for which world communism is now so eagerly reaching out, will quickly plunge Britain into virtually irrevocable bankruptcy.

No doubt all this sounds grimly commercial, and with ugly colonial overtones, too. But the danger of British bankruptcy has to be carefully weighed, none-the-less, for the simple reason that British bankruptcy will not and cannot be a nice, remote, self-contained proposition. In Britain, it will force all sorts of very great changes, and above all, it will bring on very political changes.

The main political change will quite inevitably be the one already suggested—the forced abandonment of Britain's long and costly struggle to maintain her world power role. For the United States, however, this change will have the most practical, far-reaching meaning.

American world policy is founded upon the Western Alliance. But the Western Alliance will hardly be likely to survive the economic and therefore the strategic collapse of its second partner. The same may be said for American policy in Europe, which is founded upon the more elaborately defined NATO alliance. And the same may indeed be said for the national defense of America itself, which is founded upon a strategic air command dependent for 80 per cent of its striking power on overseas bases controlled by the Western Allies.

Menaced By Defeat

The first and most important of SAC's overseas bases—the ones which set the example when they were built and will surely set the example again if they are taken away—are the bases at Burtonwood and elsewhere in East Anglia. If the Eisenhower administration decides to buy true long range striking power for SAC, of course, the East Anglian and other overseas bases will cease to be vital. But until that day, a collapse in Britain, which can quite possibly bring Aneurin Bevan to power, can quite possibly also mean the collapse of America's own national defense.

As he goes to the White House, then, Sir Anthony Eden is menaced by final defeat, by the insidious attacks on Britain's vulnerable economic flanks. And Dwight D. Eisenhower is also menaced by something very like final defeat, because of the affect on the whole American and Western power position of a British collapse.

This is the context in which decisions must be taken about the trouble in the Formosa Strait, the threat in Southeast Asia, and above all the dangerous ferment of the Middle East.

Arab-Israel Conflict And Talks With Eden

Agreement on Middle East policies may well be the principal purpose of Sir Anthony Eden's visit to this country.

Here are some reasons: Britain views stability in the Middle East as vital to her life-line to India and Australia. Britain has special interests through the whole area, notably in Jordan and Iraq which are bound to Britain by treaties. The British have troops in Somaliland and Aden, still in the empire. Britain retains military rights in Egypt, garrisons forces in Libya, exerts military influence on the Sultan of Muscat. Up to 90 per cent of the oil used in Britain comes from Iran, Iraq, and Kuwait.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd on January 24, the day on which he and Sir Anthony departed for this country, proposed that United Nations personnel be established in the demilitarized zones on Israeli-Arab frontiers. This would be done "with the approval of both sides."

Neither President Eisenhower nor Secretary of State Dulles can be expected to welcome in an election year a proposal that could result in stationing U. S. troops in a tinder-box. Dulles on January 25 was reported to have told Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban that a decision on U. S. sale of arms to Israel—to counterbalance Soviet bloc deliveries to the Arabs—might be weeks or months in the offing. On the same day the President was insisting on U. S. neutrality.

"America must be friends with both sides, and by doing so use all of its good offices every day of the year to promote some kind of friendship, at least, cooperation, between the two sides of the quarrel."

On the surface, at least, Dulles and Eden are not far apart on the Arab-Israeli problem. Dulles on August 26 put forth a three-point plan. It called for: 1 development of the Jordan Valley, in part to provide more arable land for Arab refugees, with U. S. loans for the development and for compensation to the refugees from Israel; 2 guarantee of boundaries by "formal treaty engagements" in which the U. S. and other nations would participate, preferably under U. N. sponsorship; 3 U. S. help in reconciling boundary disputes.

Sir Anthony on November 9 offered to mediate between Israel and the Arab states. Israel rejected the offer on November 15, arguing that the British proposals "intended to cut slices from Israel's territory."

Also on November 15 President Eisenhower repeated the U. S. offer of "formal treaty engagements." Israel and the Arab states have yet to endorse the Dulles plan; the U. S. has yet to endorse specifically Eden's offer of mediation.

Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett as premier of a caretaker government in Israel, on October 19, ruled out proposals that Israel embark on a "preventive" war against the Arab states. On January 22, just three days after the U. N. Security Council had unanimously voted to censure Israel, the Israeli embassy in Washington announced that Israel was willing to enter any kind of peace talks on the sole proviso that there be no preconditions.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Five Years Hence

When President Eisenhower feels that he has to make a decision concerning himself or the presidency to hold for five years, he takes in too much territory. No man can know what might happen to him physically or mentally for so long a period. Eisenhower is beset by the problem that he has had a coronary occlusion which may or may not be fully healed; his heart has been strained but it may also have been strengthened by the enforced rest of his illness and convalescence.

Suppose we elect Joe Doakes, Republican or Democrat. And let us say that during the presidency Joe Doakes develops a tumor on the brain; or let us say that he suffers from diabetic comas; or let us say, he gets one of the numerous degenerative illnesses that come to men in their 60's. The United States has had plenty of presidents, has suffered from their illnesses and even their demises and the United States has survived.

The point of the matter is that we are paying too much attention to the physical man. The United States did not suffer when Coolidge succeeded Harding, nor, I am sure, when Truman succeeded Roosevelt. Eisenhower managed to live through his coronary, but had it been otherwise, nothing of the caliber of a historic disaster would have occurred had Richard Nixon succeeded him by constitutional processes because the same people who actually govern us now would have governed us then. As it is, Eisenhower and Nixon will run in 1956 and we shall face the same physical facts as we do now.

Too much emphasis is being paid to Ike's coronary and too little to his mind and spirit. I know all that he went through with his coronary; mine is much the same type. And I am sure that he had to listen to the same propaganda that I listen to about avoiding pressures, etc., etc., but the question is not whether a man lives an extra year or two, a cabbage, but whether in his last years, before he joins his ancestors and accounts to his Maker, he devotes himself in mind and spirit, selflessly to the high opportunities for good that have been graciously put in his hands to do.

Sure, the doctors these days know much about keeping one alive, but for what? To count dates on the calendar, to celebrate birthdays, to reminisce to children and grandchildren on one's past greatness, or to grouse over other men's conduct and to say or even think how much better I could have done it? Mere living is not sufficient when useful and even high living is possible. And surely that is always possible, whether one is President of the United States or just a fellow doing his best in whatever mold life has cast him.

And so, why not stop worrying about Ike's coronary and ask the simple question we ask every four years—is this man entitled to re-election on his record? Then a campaign can be fought out on the subject, the pros and cons being unaffected by his coronary. Just as illness should not be a disadvantage, so it should not be a protective advantage. It would seem to me that 1956 should be an open campaign, in the course of which every subject should be fully debated because many issues are climatic.

Ike's coronary need no more be a political issue than somebody's broken leg or concussion from an automobile accident. The probability is that the United States will survive his coronary with less disadvantage than it did Woodrow Wilson's tumor.

Selfish Politics Befuddles Foreign Policy Of U. S.

WASHINGTON—These are dangerous times in the world. The news dispatches read strangely like those that appeared just a few months before World War II broke out.

There are the same sinister moves by aggressor governments. There is the same reckless partisanship inside the national legislatures of the democracies thus encouraging the aggressor government to think that peace-at-any-price is the underlying policy of all political parties in America, France and Britain.

There is the same duplicity behind the scenes as the aggressor builds up armament while piously proclaiming peaceful motives.

In brief, Britain is now in very real danger of final, decisive defeat in her courageous struggle to maintain her standings as a major power, second partner in the Western alliance and chief ally of the United States.

The danger arises from Britain's heavy dependence on what may be called semi-colonial income sources. This dependence has lately been obscured by British slogans like "export to live" and "trade not aid." The slogans have suggested that the British economy no longer depends upon assets acquired in the old imperialist days.

Dependent On East

But in fact Britain's jugular vein is not in the busy industrial midlands or in London's smoky suburbs. It is still in the Middle and Far East, and to a lesser degree in Africa. On the average, the Middle and Far East together produce no less than 40 per cent of Britain's annual hard currency income.

A single, highly vulnerable complex of raw material sources, the tin mines and rubber plantations of Communist-bedevelled Malaya, earn a good 16 per cent of Britain's annual dollar revenue.

A single obscure individual, the Sheikh of Kuwait, provides a substantial proportion of all the new capital annually available to the sterling area, by the simple act of investing his $250 million a year of oil revenues in London.

The loss of the British oil investment in the Middle East would bring British industry to a grinding halt, and the rest of Western Europe would be almost equally hard hit.

These facts mean in turn that the Communists in Malaya and the Soviet diplomats and agents in the Middle East are boldly probing for Britain's jugular vein, when they seek to expel British influence from these areas that were once so safely controlled by British imperial power.

Narrow Margin Now

The margin in Britain is already so narrow that London is currently in the grip of an extremely serious monetary crisis, in the midst of a business boom. The loss of almost any of the assets for which world communism is now so eagerly reaching out, will quickly plunge Britain into virtually irrevocable bankruptcy.

Frostbite Is Easier To Prevent Than To Treat

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

The insulated rubber combat boot proved effective in preventing frostbite in Korea. But, to give adequate protection, it had to be used in combination with good foot hygiene. This included personal cleanliness, frequent changing of socks, and keeping the feet dry.

Frostbite is easier to prevent than to treat. It requires protective clothing, good sense, and mature judgment. Zero temperatures are not always a prerequisite, as higher readings plus prolonged ex-posure and dampness are almost as hazardous.

When the tissues are frozen, ice crystals form in the spaces between the cells, leading to dehydration, tissue injury, and circulatory impairment. In ordinary frostbite, the damage is less severe and usually stems from circulatory embarrassment. The blood flow is sluggish and clots are likely to form.

Frostbite is graded like burns. The damage is measured after the exposed parts are rewarmed. A first degree frostbite consists of redness and puffiness of the skin. In second degree frostbite, blisters are present and in third degree, gangrene exists. Complete freezing (fourth degree) usually destroys all the tissues in the area, including the bone.

The parts are numbed until thawing begins. This is followed by tingling, aching, cramping, redness, swelling, and discoloration. During the past decade, treatment has been revolutionized. Rubbing the affected region with snow is taboo and rapid, instead of gradual rewarming, has come into vogue.

The frostbitten parts are placed in water varying from 95 to 105 degrees F., which is as hot as most people can stand. The popularity of this remedy stems from

Al Capone, notes Irv Kupcinet, had a favorite florist who had a standing order to send an elaborate floral wreath to the family of every hoodlum the Capone mob rubbed out. It was a lucrative business, and the florist showed his appreciation by getting the wreath over while the body was still warm. One day, in fact, he overreached himself. The wreath, with the victim's name tastefully worked out in white carnations, arrived before the police had even identified the body!

Skaters Turn Winter Games Into Runaway For Russians

Soviet Aces Crack Records, Boost Team Total To 85 Points

By TED SMITS

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, Jan. 30 (AP)—Russian lightning struck twice again today and sent two young speed skaters to a phenomenal world record-shattering "dead heat" for the 1500 meter championship which turned the winter Olympic Games into a Soviet runaway.

First Eugeny Grishin, a 24-year-old Moscow engraver, and then Yuri Mikhailov, a 25-year-old engineering student, each racing against the clock, shot across the finish line of the mile high Misurina track in 2 minutes, 8.6 seconds. World and Olympic marks crumbled.

Russia's Total Is 85
This double-barreled windup, plus a third placing in each of the other two finals, boosted Russia's team total to 85—more than double that of runnerup Austria, 36, and completely beyond sight of America's 6 1/2. Also it completely subordinated the day's other developments.

These saw the United States' willowy world figure skating queen, Tenley Albright, take a substantial lead in compulsory figures; the American hockey team open the Olympic tournament proper with a 7-2 shelling of Germany; and Norway and Switzerland, two skilful nations, crash through to their first gold medals.

Norwegian Scores
A 27-year-old Norwegian wood-chopper, Halgeir Brenden, sped through driving snow to victory in the 15-kilometer (nine miles, 560 yards) cross country ski race. His time was 49 minutes and 39 seconds. Petite Renee Colliard of Switzerland, who stands just five feet tall and weighs only 100 pounds, made two daring sprints down Cortina's Canalone run to win the special slalom in the combined time of 1:52.3.

America's defending champion, Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence of Parshall, Colo., continued to ski hand-in-hand with bad fortune. She struck a gage on her first trip down, took a nasty tumble on her second and finished 28th in 2:25.8. "I was going so fast I didn't know whether I missed the gate or not," Mrs. Lawrence said disconsolately later of her first ill-starred trip.

Women Disqualified
It was a bad day all around for slalom favorites. Switzerland's Madeleine Berthod, rated the world's best, and Germany's Ossi Reichert, winner of the giant slalom, both were disqualified for missing one or more gates.

The best U. S. showing in the event was by Mrs. Dorothy Surgenor of Seattle, a last minute substitute for the injured Betsy Snite of Norwich, Vt. Mrs. Surgenor's total time was 2:17.3 for 21st place. Grishin, who now becomes a double gold medalist because of his world record-breaking victory earlier in the 500 meters sprint, set the listed world 1500 meter mark of 2:09.8 at Alama Ath in Russia last January. Last month his flying teammate, Mikhailov, skated the distance in 2:09.1, not yet officially recorded.

The listed record also was smashed today by a couple of Finns. Taivo Salonen with 2:09.4 and Juhani Jarvinen with 2:09.7 for third and fourth place. The Olympic record of 2:17.6, set eight years ago by Sverre Farstad of Norway, was broken more than a score of times on the glazed Misurina ice, called the fastest in the world.

Miss Albright Leads
Miss Albright, pretty 20-year-old world champion from Newton Center, Mass., traced her school figure faultlessly at Cortina Stadium to amass 623.1 points. Miss Heiss, a real threat for the title, registered 614.5, well ahead of Ingrid Wendt of Austria, 585.7.

Under Harp, two Massillon teams have won 17 games, lost two and tied one.

To Pilot Binghamton

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Freddie Fitzsimmons, coach of the New York Yankees Giants for the past six seasons, was named manager of the New York Yankees Binghamton club in the Eastern League today. Fitzsimmons was manager of the Philadelphia Phils of the National League for three years before joining the Giants.

Dodgers Retain Walter Alston

1956 Contract Calls For About $32,500

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Walter Alston today accepted a new one-year contract, calling for a salary of about $32,500, to manage Brooklyn again in 1956.

As Walter O'Malley, Dodger president, had indicated both before and after the World Series triumph that Alston would be back, the announcement was a foregone conclusion. The actual signing ceremonies were to be held tonight.

Never a man to make rash statements, Alston cautiously told newsmen, "We've got as good a chance as anybody." He had just been honored as "man of the year in sports" for 1955 by Sport magazine and still was basking in the warm glow of kindly words from O'Malley.

Alston's return was announced at a press conference, following the luncheon. He referred all inquiries about salary to E. J. (Buzz) Bavasi, the Dodgers' vice-president.

U. S. Hockey Team To Oppose Canada

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, Jan. 30 (AP)—The United States hockey team ran up a 7-0 lead today against Germany in the opening game of the winter Olympics championship round, then relaxed to conserve its strength for a "must" game with favored Canada tomorrow.

Led by William Cleary, American intercollegiate scoring champion from Cambridge, Mass., the U. S. slammed six goals into the net in the first period, added another in the second, then eased off as Germany scored twice to make the final tally 7-2.

The Canadians weren't nearly as impressive, but still managed to break Czechoslovakia's bubble by handing the Czech's their first defeat 6-3. The Czechs defeated the United States 4-0 in the opening round.

Russia, ranked behind the Czech's as a threat to Canada, whipped Sweden 4-1.

A native of Baltimore, Ehlers was hired by the new Orioles from the Philadelphia Athletics, for whom he had been general manager for two years. The Athletics since have moved to Kansas City.

Skaters Turn Winter Games Into Runaway For Russians

Soviet Aces Crack Records, Boost Team Total To 85 Points

By TED SMITH
CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, Jan. 30 (AP)—Russian lightning struck twice again today and sent two young speed skaters to a phenomenal world record-shattering "dead heat" for the 1500 meter championship which turned the winter Olympic Games into a Soviet runaway.

First Eugeny Grishin, a 24-year-old Moscow engraver, and then Yuriy Mikhailov, a 25-year-old engineering student, each racing against the clock, shot across the finish line of the mile high Musirina track in 2 minutes, 8.6 seconds. World and Olympic marks crumbled.

Russia's Total Is 85
This double-barreled windup, plus a third placing in each of the other two finals, boosted Russia's team total to 85—more than double that of runnerup Austria, 36, and completely beyond sight of America's 6½. Also it completely subordinated the day's other developments.

These saw the United States' willowy world figure skating queen, Tenley Albright, take a substantial lead in compulsory figures; the American hockey team open the Olympic tournament proper with a 7-2 shelling of Germany; and Norway and Switzerland, two skilful nations, crash through to their first gold medals.

Norwegian Skies
A 27-year-old Norwegian wood-chopper, Halgeir Brenden, sped through driving snow to victory in the 15-kilometer (nine miles, 560 yards) cross country ski race. His time was 49 minutes and 39 seconds. Petite Renee Colliard of Switzerland, who stands just five feet tall and weighs only 100 pounds, made two daring swoops down Cortina's Canalone run to win the special slalom in the combined time of 1:52.3.

America's defending champion, Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence of Parshall, Colo., continued to ski hand-in-hand with bad fortune. She struck a gage on her first trip down, took a nasty tumble on her second and finished 28th in 2:25.8. "I was going so fast I didn't know whether I missed the gate or not," Mrs. Lawrence said disconsolately later of her first ill-starred trip.

Women Disqualified
It was a bad day all around for alom favorites. Switzerland's Madeleine Berthod, rated the world's best, and Germany's Ossi Reichert, winner of the giant slalom, both were disqualified for missing one or more gates.

The best U. S. showing in the event was by Mrs. Dorothy Surgenor of Seattle, a last minute substitute for the injured Betsy Snite of Norwich, Vt. Mrs. Surgenor's total time was 2:17.3 for 21st place.

Grishin, who now becomes a double gold medalist because of his world record-breaking victory earlier in the 500 meters sprint, set the listed world 1500 meter mark of 2:09.8 at Alama Ata in Russia last January. Last month his flying teammate, Mikhailov, skated the distance in 2:09.1, not yet officially recognized.

The listed record also was smashed today by a couple of Finns. Taivo Salonen with 2:09.4 and Juhani Jarvinen with 2:09.7 for third and fourth place. The Olympic record of 2:17.6, set eight years ago by Sverre Farstad of Norway, was broken more than a score of times on the glazed Musirina ice, called the fastest in the world.

Miss Albright Leads
Miss Albright, pretty 20-year-old world champion from Newton Center, Mass., traced her school figures faultlessly at Cortina Stadium to amass 62.1 points. Miss Heiss, a real threat for the title, registered 61.5, well ahead of Ingrid Wendt of Austria, 58.7.

McKeldin Sends Ike No. 1 Anglers' License

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 30 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin has sent President Eisenhower Maryland's No. 1 fishing license for the fourth straight year. And he said, "I hope you will find many opportunities to make use of it in the year ahead."

Dodgers Retain Walter Alston

1956 Contract Calls For About $32,500

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Walter Alston today accepted a new one-year contract, calling for a salary of about $32,500, to manage Brooklyn again in 1956.

As Walter O'Malley, Dodger president, had indicated both before and after the World Series triumph that Alston would be back, the announcement was a foregone conclusion. The actual signing ceremonies were to be held tonight.

Never a man to make rash statements, Alston cautiously told newsmen, "We've got as good a chance as anybody." He had just been honored as "man of the year in sports" for 1955 by Sport magazine and still was basking in the warm glow of kindly words from O'Malley.

Alston's return was announced at a press conference, following the luncheon. He referred all inquiries about salary to E. J. (Buzz) Bavasi, the Dodgers' vice-president.

Keyser Needs 200 Volunteer Blood Donors

Collection Center Will Be Open Today

KEYSER—Mineral County Chapter, American Red Cross, Keyser will have its tenth visit of the Bloodmobile Unit today from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m., in the Keyser High School gymnasium. The Women of the Moose, who have been steady workers in the Canteen service of ARC, and whose efforts made the visit in October an overwhelming success, have been making a telephone and house-to-house campaign, in order to achieve today's quota.

Mrs. Forrest Cosner, Keyser, blood program chairman, Mrs. Viola Davis, canteen service chairman, and Mrs. Anna Grayson, nurse enrollment chairman, have worked since the last visit to help insure the continued visits of the Bloodmobile Unit to Keyser. Keyser Needs 200 Volunteer Blood Donors

KEYSER—Mineral County Chapter, American Red Cross, Keyser will have its tenth visit of the Bloodmobile Unit today from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m., in the Keyser High School gymnasium. A total of 160 pints of blood has been set as the quota, but in order to assure the unit of this quota, 200 donors should report.

The last visit was October 19, 1955, when 158 pints were collected. Two visits in 1956 will be made on a trial basis to ascertain if 160 pints can be realized out of this community of over 6,000 people. If not successful on this first visit, it is doubtful if the second visit will take place, officials noted.

The Women of the Moose, who have been steady workers in the Canteen service of ARC, and whose efforts made the visit in October an overwhelming success, have been making a telephone and house-to-house campaign, in order to achieve today's quota.

Mineral County Chapter includes Wiley Ford, Burlington, Fort Ashby, New Creek, Keyser and surrounding communities. Mrs. Forrest Cosner, Keyser, blood program chairman, Mrs. Viola Davis, canteen service chairman, and Mrs. Anna Grayson, nurse enrollment chairman, have worked since the last visit to help insure the continued visits of the Bloodmobile Unit to Keyser. Mrs. Davis is also in charge of a committee of Women of the Moose for contact work in securing registration of donors.

Governor Visits West Virginia Ski Areas

Over the weekend, some 3,000 persons visited the ski areas near Davis, W. Va., and saw Gov. William C. Marland crown Miss Cathy Tennis of Washington, Queen of Snowland, as part of Saturday's second annual Winter Carnival. Heavy rainfall Saturday night forced cancellation of part of Sunday's program. However,

Saturday was a colorful and busy day for the winter sports fans. Shown here are Mrs. Marland, Gov. Marland and Robert Barton, operator of Weiss' Knob Ski Area. The governor spent an hour or so of his tour at this area before going to Cabin Mountain for the coronation ceremony.

Davis, W. Va. Area Growing As Popular Winter Resort

DAVIS—The area around Davis, W. Va., a favorite spot for skiers from Washington in recent years, now is attracting people from as far away as Richmond, Va.

A Richmonder, Robert Barton III, opened the Weiss Knob Ski Area, nine-and-one-half miles south of Davis and a half-mile off State Route 32 in December of 1954.

The Richmond interest in the winter sport was highlighted in the sports section of Sunday's Richmond Times-Dispatch. Under a six-column headline reading: "Want Southland Skiing? Just Go to Davis, W. Va.," the account explained some of the details of the development of Davis as a skiing center below the Mason-Dixon Line with emphasis upon Barton's activity. A three-column picture showed skiers in the Canaan Valley.

It was cited that Davis is only about a four-and-one-half hour drive from Richmond, a distance of a little over 200 miles.

The article also mentioned that the second annual Winter Carnival was scheduled at Davis over the weekend. When more than an inch of rain fell Sunday, the 500 skiers were disappointed. Barton now plans races next Sunday if there is good snow.

A social note in Saturday's Richmond News Leader mentioned that a group of girls from Sweet Brier College in Virginia are planning a skiing trip to Davis this week.

Bruce Alumni Plans Dance

WESTERNPORT—The annual banquet and dance of the Alumni Association of Bruce High School will be held at the school Saturday June 2.

The committees appointed for the affair by Henry E. Wilt at the meeting held recently include: Homer Michael and Frank Woy, decorations and Hugh Wilson and Miss Mary Hanna for printing and distribution of the tickets.

The association ordered that $100 be contributed to the High School Band toward the purchase of new uniforms for the organization.

Monthly meetings of the Alumni will be held until the annual dinner and dance.

Scouts Finance Drive Planned In Frostburg

Need Volunteer Gifts For Program

FROSTBURG—Leaders in the Boy Scout finance drive for the Frostburg area are making plans for their campaign February 13 through February 19, according to the heads of the drive, Dr. Adam Baer, chairman, and Dr. Albert Cook, co-chairman.

In Potomac Council, each community has its financial obligation to meet in continuing the Boy Scout movement, Dr. Baer pointed out.

For instance, Cumberland's share for its 828 boys is covered by the Cumberland Community Chest contribution.

This year, Dr. Thomas Bess of Keyser, council financial chairman, said the Frostburg district's goal will be $2,750.

Last year the Frostburg section had as its goal $2,750, but only $1,326.99 was raised. Dr. Bess pointed out that when the funds are lacking the Scouting program suffers by curtailment of the program.

The Frostburg section on December 31 had three Cub Scout packs with a total membership of 105 boys; seven Boy Scout troops with 171 members, and one Explorer post with 14 youths in it, for an overall total of 290 boys.

The leaders pointed out that Scouting is not tax supported. Every dollar used for the administration of the Scouting program is contributed locally by parents and friends of Scouting.

Ninety-nine per cent of all money raised in the drives through the six-county council is spent locally.

Last year, Mountain District which covers the Frostburg section was a district by itself. This month it was combined with Cumberland District, to form Nemacolin District, but the financial drive must be conducted on a sectional basis.

From Frostburg's share of the overall council budget will come trained executive leadership, a good camping program, service to units, training for leaders and an advancement program.

Joseph Peretti, Pittsburgh, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Enrico Peretti, Broadway, over the weekend.

Secrets Of Charm

Spice For The Way You Look

Variety's the spice of the way a woman looks. Nothing's more fascinating than how some women can make themselves appear subtly and intriguingly different with every change of costume and occasion—how you never get used to their looks, only to the idea that you can always expect something new.

A man finds a sunny, tweedy companion with a springy stride beside him on a long walk, and the same woman a satiny siren the same evening, gliding across a ballroom floor. Most amazingly, she's always herself. Her many-sidedness never produces a copy of anyone else, never sacrifices her own distinct individuality. Every woman has a little of the actress about her, a feeling for mood and interesting effect. Unless she gets carried away into artificiality, this works greatly to her advantage as an interesting person. And it's also her sense of fitness of things, people, places, hours, and occasions that prompt frequent transformation. In her complete manner as well as what she wears, she catches the spirit of gay informality or pays tribute to an important occasion.

The ability to quick-change from one attractive effect to another certainly makes a model stand-out on a fashion show runway. Often there, as in everyday life, costume changes are not as great as from a tweed suit to a ball gown, but a good model gives variety to what she wears with tricks of especially suitable makeup and hair arrangement and the way she carries herself. With so much more time then she has backstage, you have a much better chance to change yourself, to spice the ways you look for your own satisfaction and to fascinate others.

Tomorrow—Lead a charmed life.

It has just come to our attention that FCC has made the following announcements in part: "Any FM or TV receiver manufactured after March 1, 1956, must carry a seal certifying it complies with the Commission's radiation rules. New rules also provide that radiation devices (electronic motors, switches, ignition system, etc.) must not cause interference to radio and TV services. If they do interfere, FCC says operators of such equipment will be required to eliminate causes—revisions are effective February 1, 1956".

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Spice For The Way You Look

Variety's the spice of the way a woman looks. Nothing's more fascinating than how some women can make themselves appear subtly and intriguingly different with every change of costume and occasion—how you never get used to their looks, only to the idea that you can always expect something new.

A man finds a sunny, tweedy companion with a springy stride beside him on a long walk, and the same woman a satiny siren a ballroom floor. Most amazingly, she's always herself. Her many-sidedness never produces a copy of anyone else, never sacrifices her own distinct individuality.

Every woman has a little of the actress about her, a feeling for mood and interesting effect. Unless she gets carried away into artificiality, this works greatly to her advantage as an interesting person. And it's also her sense of fitness of things, people, places, hours, and occasions that prompt frequent transformation. In her complete manner as well as what she wears, she catches the spirit of an important occasion.

The ability to quick-change from one attractive effect to another certainly makes a model stand-out on a fashion show runway. Often there, as in everyday life, costume changes are not as great as from a tweed suit to a ball gown, but a good model gives variety to what she wears with tricks of especially suitable makeup and hair arrangement and the way she carries herself. With so much more time then she has backstage, you have a much better chance to change yourself, to spice the ways you look for your own satisfaction and to fascinate others.

Tomorrow—Lead a charmed life.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our many friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement. Special thanks to Dr. John D. MacLeod, donor of cars and flowers and the Moore Lodge. The family of H. O. Liller and Mrs. Tina Westfall

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband, Howard J. Felton, who passed away Jan. 31, 1954. Memories and treasures none can steal. Death leaves a heartache none can heal. How hard it is to be forgotten. Now that you are gone, Howard, I will remember no matter how long.

Sadly missed by wife, NINA M. FELTON

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Jan. 30 (INS)—Here in one of the main homes of the Douglas Aircraft Co., Inc., a great company that is getting ready to fill $600,000,000 worth of orders for a plane that is not yet in existence nor will be for a year so to come—the DC-8.

The DC-8, when built, will be a 550-mph 4-jet airliner able to fly across the U. S. or the Atlantic without an extra gulp of gas. It and Boeing's 707 apparently represent the last word in air travel that now can be foreseen by the industry's well-paid dreamers. Beyond this slightly sub-sonic speed lies only improbable conveyance by rocket.

The 707 has been flown across the country in a few hours. The DC-8, which has attracted even more buyers, which is a tribute to the Douglas company, is still only a beautiful carpentry job. But from its huge but stylish plywood frame will come a metal plane with a body about three times stronger than the DC-7, windows that have three thicknesses of glass, new-type doors built to retain cabin pressures at 40,000 feet, windshields of 4-inch glass and hundreds of other improvements over the best of the modern propeller planes.

Each DC-8 will cost about $5,000,000. The standard airliner just before Pearl Harbor was attacked was the DC-3, which cost about $90,000. A single DC-8 will cost twice as much as a whole modern streamlined train. But each will transport from 200 to 300 passengers across the country or the Atlantic every day, so the operator will not have to wait exceedingly long to get back his

Rec Department To Supervise Sled Riding

Materials, Workers Are Being Lined Up

The Cumberland Recreation Department is taking over the supervisory of sled riding at the request of the Police Department, according to Robert E. Pence, recreation director.

Plans, he said, call for supervised sledding on eight streets, Gephart Drive to Cleveland Avenue, Grand Avenue, Oak Street, Goethe Street, Chase Street, Marietta Street, Sylvan Avenue and Warren Street.

Pence said the department is making arrangements to borrow or purchase lanterns and rope which can be used to rope off and mark the areas where supervised sledding will be offered from 7 to 10 p. m. when snow is available.

Must Get Lined Up

He warned the Recreation Department will not be able to start the program if snow arrives overnight.

In addition to the equipment, the department must also attempt to secure parents or interested citizens living in the area of the roped off streets to supervise the activity. The City of Cumberland, he said, assumes no responsibility for sledding accidents or injuries, but has roped off streets in each section of the city, so vehicles will not be a hazard.

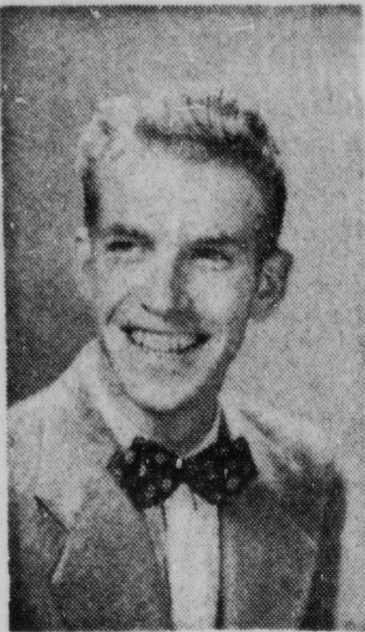

Rules for the activity, Pence said, will remain as in the past: Do not run and slam your sled when starting. Many a person has slipped and suffered severe injuries while doing this. Do not ride one on top of another. Do not try to ram another sled. Keep clear of the track when returning with your sled. Be careful of small children on the track.

To Announce Plans

Pence said the Police Department has asked the Recreation Department to take over, saying it does not have the manpower.

He said the department is happy to do so since sledding is really a recreational activity.

Final plans will be announced, he said, as soon as the department lines up materials and personnel to supervise the activity.

Hyndman Man Wins Degree At Penn State

Harry L. Moore Is On Extension Staff

Harry Louis Moore, 25, Hyndman, Pa., received his master of science degree in agriculture at graduation ceremonies yesterday at Pennsylvania State University.

He was appointed last month to the agriculture extension staff of Pennsylvania State University and stationed in Erie, Pa., as assistant county agent in marketing.

A native of Hyndman, he has a farm background and completed his secondary education at Hyndman High School.

He was graduated in 1952 from Penn State, where he majored in agriculture economics, and then began graduate work in marketing which resulted in the awarding of his master of science degree yesterday.

Moore is a World War II veteran and served with the Army from 1952 to 1954.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Moore, Hyndman, and is married to the former Mary Jane Horner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Horner, Hyndman.

His father is a Production Department worker at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company here.

He is the second member of the family to graduate from Penn State — his brother, William P. Moore, received an engineering degree in 1953.

Members of the family attended the graduation exercises at University Park, marked by an address by Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Jury Places $3,500 Tag On Property

Condemnation Case Takes Full Day

After deliberating for almost an hour yesterday afternoon, a jury which heard a land condemnation case in Allegany County Circuit Court, returned a $3,500 verdict to Floyd K. and Phoebe R. Goldsboro, who reside in the vicinity of McCool.

The State Roads Commission deposited a check for $1,500 with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of the court, when the papers were filed some time ago seeking land in the modernization of the highway between McCool and Westernport.

The members of the jury, including four women, visited the scene yesterday morning and later in the afternoon heard the testimony in the case.

Counsel for the Goldsboros, William R. Carscaden and W. Earle Cobe, sought approximately $7,000 as a fair amount for their clients.

Among those testifying yesterday in the trial presided over by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris were Sterling Levie, Hagerstown, SRC land appraiser, and D. Clifford Goodfellow, city who also appraised the property for the state.

Spiker and John F. Workmeister, local realtors, represented the plaintiffs in appraising the property.

The case was completed about 4:15 p. m. and the jury did not reach a verdict until about 5:05 p. m. Counsel for the SRC was Frederick A. Puderbaugh, local attorney.

Mothers March On Polio In Allegany Co. Tonight

Sirens To Announce Start Of Solicitation

Throughout all of Allegany County tonight between 7 and 8 o'clock several hundred volunteers will go from door to door in the annual Mothers March on Polio. These women, soliciting contributions for the annual March of Dimes, hope to collect upwards of $8,000.

The march will get underway with the sounding of fire sirens in almost every community, signalling the time to turn on porch lights to light the way for this army of mothers, waging war against the dread malady, polio.

The coming of the Salk vaccine, made possible by funds raised in past campaigns, heralds the winning of one battle against the disease and the rigors of the disease. However, there is much more to be done, many already stricken to be cared for, and the fight must continue. Thus, the mothers, encouraged by the progress of science, are determined that they will knock on every door tonight.

Every resident, young and old, rich or poor, is urged to give a dime, a dollar, or something to the March of Dimes.

According to Mrs. Lester R. McGill, general chairman of the Mothers March, cooperation of all groups and individuals asked to help has been "wonderful." She predicted, that if the weather is half way decent, and if residents are as generous as they have been in past years, it will be quite easy to collect $8,000 in the county.

Volunteers have been assigned to every street, and auxiliary policemen in Cumberland and volunteer firemen in most other communities will be on hand in all neighborhoods to aid the marchers, if they need assistance. The Allegany County League for Crippled Children headquarters at City Hall Plaza here has been designated as headquarters. Reports will be made there, and a crew of men will be on hand to count, wrap and tabulate the money collected.

In addition to names already reported as volunteers in the Mother March tonight, the following have been released by neighborhood captains:

Strong Winds Accompany Cold Weather Here

Temperatures Drop Sharply In The Area

Sharp gusts of winds, sometimes reaching more than 60 miles per hour, accompanied a sudden drop in temperatures in the tri-state area yesterday as Western Maryland girded for another cold snap. Forecast for today was cloudy and colder.

Snow flurries in the late afternoon heralded the fast dipping mercury, following on the heels of an inch of rain over Sunday night and early Monday morning in the Cumberland section.

Temperatures rose to 50 degrees in Cumberland just after noon yesterday but dropped sharply about 17 degrees in a matter of three or four hours to a low of 33.

Steady Blow

Winds accompanying the cold snap which moved into Maryland yesterday sometimes blew steadily at 40 to 45 miles per hour with gusts reaching 60 mph.

The wind gusts caused isolated reports of trees and house roofs damage in some parts of the city although no serious instances were noted by city authorities or police. State police and State Roads Commission officials reported highways in good condition.

The predicted snow storm which was headed toward this area from the east apparently shifted to the north into Pennsylvania where heavy snow fall was recorded.

Garrett County readied itself for a predicted three to six inches but indications late last night were that much of the storm would pass by.

Rises, Then Drops

R. E. Weber, weather observer at Oakland, said 1.7 inches of rain in the past two days had taken much of the precipitation out of the air. The mercury rose to a high of 50 at Oakland and dropped below freezing by late afternoon yesterday. Snow flurries and high winds were prevalent late last night as the barometer also dropped.

The Potomac River rose about four feet early yesterday but later began to drop. Ice which had formed in the stream above Luke broke due to the warm rain and thaw overnight Sunday.

Raising water in Wills Creek, also due to the Sunday thaw, caused the E. J. Albrecht Company to halt Wills Creek excavation work in connection with the flood control project.

A haul road which the company built along the western side of the stream from a point above the Valley Street bridge to the confluence of creek and river across to the old Community ball park was inundated.

Officials said the haul road will be repaired, and work resumed, as soon as the water recedes.

Forestry Office Gets Material On Fire Safety

For the purpose of eliminating unnecessary forest fires and the loss of valuable timber, the annual supply of safety posters, blotters and calendars was being distributed yesterday at the office of William H. Johnson, district forester.

Materials were being distributed to supervisors of Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties in the battle against destructive forest fires which can cause heavy property loss and even cost the lives of individuals.

Pictured on the calendar is "Smoking the Bear" reminding persons to be careful with fire every day of 1956 while a little cub is displaying a sign showing a match and cigarette with the caption "Be Sure They're Out—Dead Out."

A six inch ruler is also among the safety material and five safe rules on the prevention of fires is explained. The safety program is sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Fire Service, and the State of Maryland Department of Forests and Parks.

Kick-Off Heart Fund Campaign

Dr. Benedict Skitarelis, general chairman for the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association fund campaign, is shown at the left, with Dr. William R. Milnor, noted Baltimore heart specialist; Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis, association secretary, and Ernest B. Treat, association president, as they attended the campaign kick-off dinner last night at Central YMCA. There were representatives present from all parts of the city and county.

Heart Fund Drive Opens For $14,460

Dr. William B. Milnor Outlines Research

Launching their 1956 campaign for funds, the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association held a kick-off dinner at Central YMCA last night, with representatives present from all parts of the city and county. Due to inclement weather, 13 representatives from Garrett County, did not attend, and telephoned their last-minute cancellations.

Guest speaker at the affair which launched the $14,460 two-county campaign, was a noted heart disease specialist, Dr. William R. Milnor of Baltimore.

Dr. Milnor, long active in heart research and a lecturer at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, outlined the heart association's research at the national, state and local levels.

Rapid Progress

Dr. Milnor said that in the last decade or two, rapid progress in dealing with heart disease has been made, especially in the field of heart surgery. Practically all this has been made possible through research grants from such organizations as the American Heart Association.

He explained that in 12 years, due to grants given to physicians and others working entirely on heart research, it has now become possible to repair damaged hearts that once would have caused death, and many other discoveries have been made. He noted also, that the continuing research program has science on the threshold of many more startlingly discoveries.

84 Fellowships

Last year a million and a half dollars was spent by the Heart Association for 84 fellowships dealing exclusively with heart diseases, their cause and treatments. There were 200 research scientists and physicians approved for fellowship grants, but there were insufficient funds to employ them all.

He pointed out too, in his explanation of why "any kind of research" costs so much, that the more detailed research becomes, and the more closely and thoroughly science probes and looks, the

Baron Says Juvenile Court Needs Additional Staff

Concerned over the lack of help in handling Juvenile Court cases and the growing demands on the court authorities to combat what he calls a rising tide of juvenile delinquency, expressed the need of more help in his department.

Continuing his fight to bring the Allegany County Juvenile Court up to standard with many other sections of the country, Magistrate Baron said he is in need of another probation officer and a woman case worker. At present the Juvenile Court staff is composed of a woman secretary, a court clerk and a probation officer in addition to the court magistrate.

"In order to point out how short handed we are," Magistrate Baron said, "let me say that very few people are really familiar with the activities of the Juvenile Court. They are even less familiar with the workings of the court in the past and how it should be brought up to an acceptable standard in line with what is being done over the country in the field of juvenile delinquency."

"To state what I have in mind more specifically, I will mention a few cases that have come up before the Juvenile Court of Allegany County recently."

"A few days ago I tried the case of two youthful offenders of this county. Both came from normal American homes, one aged 17 and the other 14. The parents of the two boys were what we might call of the average middle class family with fair income."

"Both boys attended school regularly, were well behaved and did average work in their studies. Yet these two boys started on a consistent campaign of vandalism and destruction that extended over a period of three weeks."

"This campaign of vandalism has never been equalled before and I hope will never be surpassed."

"What causes two normal boys brought up and reared in normal American homes, and in one instance particularly, in a religious home, is a question that is difficult to answer. In order to learn the answer to such a question and search out the underlying cause, we need more help, and the means to do it with, so that we might succeed in avoiding and possibly curing activities of this type."

"A family was brought into our court in which there were seven children. The father had no mean income for a working man. He earned about $85 or $90 per week. "The mother, more by choice than necessity, took a job as a waitress in a tavern in the evenings. The house was indescribably dirty and this was reported to us by two deputy sheriffs, the health nurse and the state police."

"Both parents were found guilty of neglect of their children, but were paroled with the strict admonition that they must give more care and attention to their children, clean up the house, and the mother was instructed to quit her job at the tavern, stay home and take care of her offspring."

"This case, too, needs following up and requires constant watch on our part to see that the family does not fall back into the old practices."

"The number of cases coming up before the Juvenile Court here is considerably on the increase and with the means at hand we can fight juvenile delinquency but very poorly."

SRC Seeks Land On Martin's Mt.

A condemnation suit has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court by the State Roads Commission which is seeking a section of land along Martin's Mountain on U. S. Route 40.

Defendants in the suit are William H. Elliott and his wife, Lucy M. Elliott, who reside at RD 1, Flintstone. A check for $1,050 payable to the clerk of the court has been deposited by the plaintiffs.

The land situated in the Third Election District consists of 40 acres, more or less, which is being taken in fee simple .02 acres, more or less which lies adjacent to the property being sought for the improvement of Route 40 on Martin's Mountain.

Counsel for the SRC are C. Ferdinand Sybert, Attorney General; Joseph D. Buscher, special assistant attorney general, and Simon F. Reilly, local attorney.

Assessments In Five Md. Counties Upped

Those With Lowest Rates Are Checked

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30 (AP) — Chairman Joseph Allen of the State Tax Commission said today "substantial progress" has been made toward a more uniform ratio of property assessments.

Allen said this was shown in a report from an assessors' committee which has just completed a study of five counties in the State in which the ratio of assessment to value was found to be lowest in 1953.

The ratio has increased in each case, Allen said.

Eight counties which were below the rest of the state in the ratio of assessment to value were slated for study. The reports on Calvert, Charles, Howard, St. Mary's and Somerset Counties are now in.

Dorchester, Wicomico and Worcester remain to be evaluated.

The committee was composed of Wilton T. Allen, supervisor of assessments in Montgomery County, the chairman; Somerville Nicholson, Allegany County, and Stephen M. Kahoe, Harford County.

The following table shows the changes in percentage of assessments to value from 1953 when a first study was made to 1955.

County	1953	1955
Calvert	25	38
Charles	27	35
Howard	29	40
St. Mary's	30	39
Somerset	27	40

There was renewed talk of a move to install Sen. Ramsburg (R-Fredrick) in the Senate minority leadership to succeed Sen. Phoebus (R-Somerset), who took over after Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County resigned last year to become head of the Department of Employment Security.

Both Ramsburg and Phoebus said they are not actively campaigning for the post.

However, Ramsburg adherents said Phoebus was named in 1955 with the understanding that he would step out before the 1956 session and the Frederick County senator would step in.

"Actually, it's a thankless job," said Ramsburg.

"I'm not a candidate for it," said Phoebus. "The only thing I'm a candidate for is Heaven, so you know I must be telling the truth."

Of the 28 Republicans in the House, five have been mentioned most prominently in talk of candidates for the minority leadership, and four of these—Driscoll, Hughes Reed and Cook — are from Allegany County. The other is Del. Berkson (R-Washington).

Legislature May Not Seek Tax Increase

Coming Election May Be Influence

By LOUIS PANOS

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 30 (AP) — Maryland's Republican governor and Democrat-controlled Legislature sparred cautiously over election-year considerations today as they prepared for Wednesday's opening of the 1956 General Assembly.

The Democrats appeared especially mindful of an old political tenet that such a year is a poor time for:

1. Pushing for a general tax increase.
2. Intra-party squabbling over offices of prestige and influence in the Legislature.

One Admission

Their attitude on the first point seemed well illustrated by one senator's admission that he "might have to go along with" McKeldin's veto of the maximum-surplus bill, even though he agrees with the bill "in principle."

It would earmark for reduction off the State debt any surplus money over two million dollars. Estimates of this year's surplus run around 15 million, and Gov. McKeldin has said he is counting on it to help balance next year's budget.

Although Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County), majority leader and sponsor of the bill, has declared he will press to override the governor's veto, some fellow Democrats are reluctant to make an issue of it.

They base this reluctance on the belief that if they make only two million dollars of surplus available for balancing the 1957 budget, instead of the 15 million set aside by McKeldin, they must devise a plan to make up the 13 million dollar difference.

That would probably mean increased taxes in an election year, which would be politically impractical, they argue.

Still Rumblings

There still were rumblings of an attempt to unseat Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert) as Senate president late today, but these were much more faint than two weeks ago.

Turnbull, who engineered the coup which put Goldstein into the chair last year, had been wooed by an opposing faction seeking to overthrow the Calvert County senator this time.

But a source close to Turnbull said the Baltimore County whip had decided to spurn an offer of the presidency in exchange for his support in the budding rebellion. Once again, a prime consideration was the desire to avoid a party split in an election year, said the informant.

Similar reasons were given in the House by members who forecast the re-election of Speaker Luber (D-Balto 5th) without opposition.

Oddly enough, Republicans—outnumbered in the Senate by 21-8 and in the House by 98-25—gave the strongest indications of whipping up any contests in the legislative organization.

There was renewed talk of a move to install Sen. Ramsburg (R-Fredrick) in the Senate minority leadership to succeed Sen. Phoebus (R-Somerset), who took over after Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County resigned last year to become head of the Department of Employment Security.

Both Ramsburg and Phoebus said they are not actively campaigning for the post.

However, Ramsburg adherents said Phoebus was named in 1955 with the understanding that he would step out before the 1956 session and the Frederick County senator would step in.

"Actually, it's a thankless job," said Ramsburg.

"I'm not a candidate for it," said Phoebus. "The only thing I'm a candidate for is Heaven, so you know I must be telling the truth."

Of the 28 Republicans in the House, five have been mentioned most prominently in talk of candidates for the minority leadership, and four of these—Driscoll, Hughes Reed and Cook — are from Allegany County. The other is Del. Berkson (R-Washington).

Swick Receives Suspended Term

A former local man, Baxter J. Swick, who several weeks ago pleaded guilty in Allegany County Circuit Court to one count of a forgery indictment, was given a suspended sentence of one year in the Maryland House of Correction.

In passing sentence, Chief Judge George Henderson placed Swick on probation for a three year period on the condition he keep the peace, be of good behavior, make restitution to Joseph Divico, city, within 90 days, try to obtain work and to keep employed.

Swick, who learned a trade while serving in the Federal Reformatory at Atlanta, Ga., was charged with forging a check for $104 on September 22, 1954.

He was returned to Cumberland after completing a sentence in Atlanta on a charge of transporting a stolen auto from one state to another.

The check for $104 was made out to Swick who signed the name of George C. Smith and it was cashed by Divico. It was written on a Cumberland Savings Bank blank check.

$600,000 Flood Bond Issue To Be Sold Today

The Mayor and Council will meet in special session today at 10 a. m. to sell a $600,000 flood control bond issue.

The firm of Miles, Walsh and Stockbridge was retained yesterday to approve legal sufficiency of the bonds. A number of investment firms have inquired about the issue, officials said.

An order

Rec Department To Supervise Sled Riding

Materials, Workers Are Being Lined Up

The Cumberland Recreation Department is taking over the supervisory of sled riding at the request of the Police Department, according to Robert E. Pence, recreation director.

Plans, he said, call for supervised sledding on eight streets, Gephart Drive to Cleveland Avenue, Grand Avenue, Oak Street, Goethe Street, Chase Street, Marietta Street, Sylvan Avenue and Warren Street.

Pence said the department is making arrangements to borrow or purchase lanterns and rope which can be used to rope off and mark the areas where supervised sledding will be offered from 7 to 10 p. m. when snow is available.

Must Get Lined Up

He warned the Recreation Department will not be able to start the program if snow arrives overnight.

In addition to the equipment, the department must also attempt to secure parents or interested citizens living in the area of the roped off streets to supervise the activity.

The City of Cumberland, he said, assumes no responsibility for sledding accidents or injuries, but has roped off streets in each section of the city, so vehicles will not be a hazard.

Rules for the activity, Pence said, will remain as in the past: Do not run and slam your sled when starting. Many a person has slipped and suffered severe injuries while doing this.

Do not ride on top of another. Do not try to ram another sled. Keep clear of the track when returning with your sled.

To Announce Plans

Pence said the Police Department has asked the Recreation Department to take over, saying it does not have the manpower.

He said the department is happy to do so since sledding is really a recreational activity.

Final plans will be announced, he said, as soon as the department lines up materials and personnel to supervise the activity.

$600,000 Flood Bond Issue To Be Sold Today

The Mayor and Council will meet in special session today at 10 a. m. to sell a $600,000 flood control bond issue.

The firm of Miles, Walsh and Stockbridge was retained yesterday to approve legal sufficiency of the bonds. A number of investment firms have inquired about the issue, officials said.

An order for payment of a bill directly connected with the flood bond issue was approved by the city yesterday with the provision payment be withheld until money from the bonds becomes available.

Involved is $2,856.76 to the Western Maryland Railway for expenses for temporary and permanent line changes plus flagging protection afforded during construction of the Valley Street bridge. Under an agreement with the railway, the city was to pay costs of moving any utility. It was pointed out Western Union and signal lines of the railway were moved.

Commissioner William H. Buchholz commented that "it seems like a lot of money to me."

Council approved appointment of three junior basketball instructors for the Recreation Department at $4 a session. They are George Wolfe, Russell Robertson and William Kirk.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson was authorized to issue checks for the second period of January to morrow.

Use of city water was down slightly last week from the year before, Council was told. The daily average was 11,797,000 gallons as compared to 12,032,000 a year ago.

Lake Gordon was three feet below the spillway Sunday and Lake Koon, 11 feet, eight inches below the crest.

Hyndman Man Wins Degree At Penn State

Harry L. Moore Is On Extension Staff

Harry Louis Moore, 25, Hyndman, Pa., received his master of science degree in agriculture at graduation ceremonies yesterday at Pennsylvania State University.

He was appointed last month to the agriculture extension staff of Pennsylvania State University and stationed in Erie, Pa., as assistant county agent in marketing.

A native of Hyndman, he has a farm background and completed his secondary education at Hyndman High School.

He was graduated in 1932 from Penn State, where he majored in agriculture economics, and then began graduate work in marketing which resulted in the awarding of his master of science degree yesterday.

Moore is a World War II veteran and served with the Army from 1932 to 1934.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Moore, Hyndman, and is married to the former Mary Jane Horner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Horner, Hyndman.

His father is a Production Department worker at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company here.

He is the second member of the family to graduate from Penn State — his brother, William P. Moore, received an engineering degree in 1933.

Members of the family attended the graduation exercises at University Park, marked by an address by Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Jury Places $3,500 Tag On Property

Condemnation Case Takes Full Day

After deliberating for almost an hour yesterday afternoon, a jury which heard a land condemnation case in Allegany County Circuit Court, returned a $3,500 verdict to Floyd K. and Phoebe R. Goldsboro, who reside in the vicinity of McCool.

The State Roads Commission deposited a check for $1,500 with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of the court, when the papers were filed some time ago seeking land in the modernization of the highway between McCool and Westernport.

The members of the jury, including four women, visited the scene yesterday morning and later in the afternoon heard the testimony in the case.

Counsel for the Goldsboros, William R. Carscaden and W. Earle Cobey, sought approximately $7,000 as a fair amount for their clients.

Among those testifying yesterday in the trial presided over by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris were Sterling Levie, Hagerstown, SRC land appraiser, and D. Clifford Goodfellow, city who also appraised the property for the state. Howard Spiker and John F. Workmeister, local realtors, represented the plaintiffs in appraising the property.

The case was completed about 4:15 p. m. and the jury did not reach a verdict until about 5:05 p. m. Counsel for the SRC was Frederick A. Puderbaugh, local attorney.

Mothers March On Polio In Allegany Co. Tonight

Sirens To Announce Start Of Solicitation

Throughout all of Allegany County tonight between 7 and 8 o'clock several hundred volunteers will go from door to door in the annual Mothers March on Polio. These women, soliciting contributions for the annual March of Dimes, hope to collect upwards of $8,000.

The march will get underway with the sounding of fire sirens in almost every community, signaling the time to turn on porch lights to light the way for this army of mothers, waging war against the dread malady, polio.

The coming of the Salk vaccine, made possible by funds raised in past campaigns, heralds the winning of one battle against the disease and the rigors of the disease. However, there is much more to be done, many already stricken to be cared for, and the fight must continue. Thus, the mothers, encouraged by the progress of science, are determined that they will knock on every door tonight.

Every resident, young and old, rich or poor, is urged to give a dime, a dollar, or something to the March of Dimes.

According to Mrs. Lester R. McGill, general chairman of the Mothers March, cooperation of all groups and individuals asked to help has been "wonderful." She predicted, that if the weather is half way decent, and if residents are as generous as they have been in past years, it will be quite easy to collect $8,000 in the county.

Volunteers have been assigned to every street, and auxiliary policemen in Cumberland and volunteer firemen in most other communities will be on hand in all neighborhoods to aid the marchers, if they need assistance.

The Allegany County League for Crippled Children headquarters at City Hall Plaza here has been designated as headquarters. Reports will be made there, and a crew of men will be on hand to count, wrap and tabulate the money collected.

In addition to names already reported as volunteers in the Mother March tonight, the following have been released by neighborhood captains:

Strong Winds Accompany Cold Weather Here

Temperatures Drop Sharply In The Area

Sharp gusts of winds, sometimes reaching more than 60 miles per hour, accompanied a sudden drop in temperatures in the tri-state area yesterday as Western Maryland geared for another cold snap. Forecast for today was cloudy and colder.

Snow flurries in the late afternoon heralded the fast dipping mercury, following on the heels of an inch of rain over Sunday night and early Monday morning in the Cumberland section.

Temperatures rose to 50 degrees in Cumberland just after noon yesterday but dropped sharply about 17 degrees in a matter of three or four hours to a low of 33.

Steady Blow

Winds accompanying the cold snap which moved into Maryland yesterday sometimes blew steadily at 40 to 45 miles per hour with gusts reaching 60 mph.

The wind gusts caused isolated reports of trees and house roofs damage in some parts of the city although no serious instances were noted by city authorities or police. State police and State Roads Commission officials reported highways in good condition.

The predicted snow storm which was headed toward this area from the east apparently shifted to the north into Pennsylvania where heavy snow fall was recorded.

Garrett County readied itself for a predicted three to six inches but indications late last night were that much of the storm would pass by.

Rises, Then Drops

R. E. Weber, weather observer at Oakland, said 1.7 inches of rain in the past two days had taken much of the precipitation out of the air. The mercury rose to a high of 50 at Oakland and dropped below freezing by late afternoon yesterday. Snow flurries and high winds were prevalent late last night as the barometer also dropped.

The Potomac River rose about four feet early yesterday but later began to drop. Ice which had formed in the stream above Luke broke due to the warm rain and thaw overnight Sunday.

Raising water in Wills Creek, also due to the Sunday thaw, caused the E. J. Albrecht Company to halt Wills Creek excavation work in connection with the flood control project.

A haul road which the company built along the western side of the stream from a point above the Valley Street bridge to the confluence of creek and river across to the old Community ball park was inundated.

Officials said the haul road will be repaired, and work resumed, as soon as the water recedes.

Forestry Office Gets Material On Fire Safety

For the purpose of eliminating unnecessary forest fires and the loss of valuable timber, the annual supply of safety posters, blotters and calendars was being distributed yesterday at the office of William H. Johnson, district forester.

Materials were being distributed to supervisors of Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties in the battle against destructive forest fires which can cause heavy property loss and even cost the lives of individuals.

Pictured on the calendar is "Smokey the Bear" reminding persons to be careful with fire every day of 1956 while a little cub is displaying a sign showing a match and cigarette with the caption "Be Sure They're Out—Dead Out."

A six inch ruler is also among the safety material and five safe rules on the prevention of fires is explained. The safety program is sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Fire Service, and the State of Maryland Department of Forests and Parks.

Heart Fund Drive Opens For $14,460

Dr. William B. Milnor Outlines Research

Launching their 1956 campaign for funds, the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association held a kick-off dinner at Central YMCA last night, with representatives present from all parts of the city and county. Due to inclement weather, 13 representatives from Garrett County, did not attend, and telephoned their last-minute cancellations.

Guest speaker at the affair which launched the $14,460 two-county campaign, was a noted heart disease specialist, Dr. William R. Milnor of Baltimore.

Dr. Milnor, long active in heart research and a lecturer at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, outlined the heart association's research at the national, state and local levels.

Rapid Progress

Dr. Milnor said that in the last decade or two, rapid progress in dealing with heart disease has been made, especially in the field of heart surgery. Practically all this has been made possible through research grants from such organizations as the American Heart Association.

He explained that in 12 years, due to grants given to physicians and others working entirely on heart research, it has now become possible to repair damaged hearts that once would have caused death, and many other discoveries have been made. He noted also, that the continuing research program has science on the threshold of many more startlingly discoveries.

84 Fellowships

Last year a million and a half dollars was spent by the Heart Association for 84 fellowships dealing exclusively with heart diseases, their cause and treatments. There were 200 research scientists and physicians approved for fellowship grants, but there were insufficient funds to employ them all.

He pointed out too, in his explanation of why "any kind of research" costs so much, that the more detailed research becomes, and the more closely and thoroughly science probes and looks, the

Baron Says Juvenile Court Needs Additional Staff

Concerned over the lack of help in handling Juvenile Court cases and the growing demands on the court authorities to combat what he calls a rising tide of juvenile delinquency Magistrate for Juvenile Causes Morris Baron yesterday expressed the need of more help in his department.

Continuing his fight to bring the Allegany County Juvenile Court up to standard with many other sections of the country Magistrate Baron said he is in need of another probation officer and a woman case worker. At present the Juvenile Court staff is composed of a woman secretary, a court clerk and a probation officer in addition to the court magistrate.

"In order to point out how short handed we are," Magistrate Baron said, "let me say that very few people are really familiar with the activities of the Juvenile Court. They are even less familiar with the workings of the court in the past and how it should be brought up to an acceptable standard in line with what is being done over the country in the field of juvenile delinquency."

"To state what I have in mind more specifically, I will mention a few cases that have come up before the Juvenile Court of Allegany County recently."

"A few days ago I tried the case of two youthful offenders of this county. Both came from normal American homes, one aged 17 and the other 14. The parents of the two boys were what we might call of the average middle class family with fair income."

"Both boys attended school regularly, were well behaved and did average work in their studies. Yet these two boys started on a consistent campaign of vandalism and destruction that extended over a period of three weeks."

"This campaign of vandalism has never been equalled before and I hope will never be surpassed."

"What causes two normal boys brought up and reared in normal American homes, and in one instance particularly, in a religious home, is a question that is difficult to answer. In order to learn the answer to such a question and search out the underlying cause, we need more help, and the means to do it with, so that we might succeed in avoiding and possibly curing activities of this type."

"A family was brought into our court in which there were seven children. The father had no mean income for a working man. He earned about $85 or $90 per week."

"The mother, more by choice than necessity, took a job as a waitress in a tavern in the evenings. The house was indescribably dirty and this was reported to us by two deputy sheriffs, the health nurse and the state police."

"Both parents were found guilty of neglect of their children, but were paroled with the strict admonition that they must give more care and attention to their children, clean up the house, and the mother was instructed to quit her job at the tavern, stay home and take care of her offspring."

"This case, too, needs following up and requires constant watch on our part to see that the family does not fall back into the old practices."

"The number of cases coming up before the Juvenile Court here is considerably on the increase and with the means at hand we can fight juvenile delinquency but very poorly."

SRC Seeks Land On Martin's Mt.

A condemnation suit has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court by the State Roads Commission which is seeking a section of land along Martin's Mountain on U. S. Route 40.

Defendants in the suit are William H. Elliott and his wife, Lucy M. Elliott, who reside at RD 1, Flintstone. A check for $1,050 payable to the clerk of the court has been deposited by the plaintiffs.

The land situated in the Third Election District consists of 40 acres, more or less, which is being taken in fee simple .02 acres, more or less which lies adjacent to the property being sought for the improvement of Route 40 on Martin's Mountain.

Counsel for the SRC are C. Ferdinand Sybert, Attorney General; Joseph D. Buscher, special assistant attorney general, and Simon F. Reilly, local attorney.

Assessments In Five Md. Counties Upped

Those With Lowest Rates Are Checked

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30 (AP) — Chairman Joseph Allen of the State Tax Commission said today "substantial progress" has been made toward a more uniform ratio of property assessments.

Allen said this was shown in a report from an assessors' committee which has just completed a study of five counties in the State in which the ratio of assessment to value was found to be lowest in 1953.

The ratio has increased in each case, Allen said.

Eight counties which were below the rest of the state in the ratio of assessment to value were slated for study. The reports on Calvert, Charles, Howard, St. Mary's and Somerset Counties are now in.

Dorchester, Wicomico and Worcester remain to be evaluated.

The committee was composed of Wilton T. Allen, supervisor of assessments in Montgomery County; the chairman; Somerville Nicholson, Allegany County; and Stephen M. Kahoe, Harford County.

The following table shows the changes in percentage of assessments to value from 1953 when a first study was made to 1955.

County	1953	1955
Calvert	25	38
Charles	27	35
Howard	29	40
St. Mary's	30	39
Somerset	27	40

Quick action by volunteer firemen of Keyser and McCool yesterday afternoon averted what could have developed into a more serious blaze at the Wildeman Animal Cleaners plant, 54 West Piedmont Street, Keyser.

Raymond Stafford, owner and operator of the cleaning establishment, said the blaze apparently originated in the drying room and flames also scorched the boiler room as they quickly spread through the building.

He added that no clothing was destroyed although some was in the process of being dried. Flames were reported coming out one side of the building as heavy smoke billowed about the plant.

The fire occurred about 4 p. m. Answering the call were firemen and two trucks from Keyser and volunteers and one truck from nearby McCool.

A full estimate of the damage caused was not learned last night and it is expected that the plant will be back in operation this afternoon.

The damage, according to Stafford, is covered by insurance.

Legislature May Not Seek Tax Increase

Coming Election May Be Influence

By LOUIS PANOS

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 30 (AP) — Maryland's Republican governor and Democrat-controlled Legislature sparred cautiously over election-year considerations today as they prepared for Wednesday's opening of the 1956 General Assembly.

The Democrats appeared especially mindful of an old political tenet that such a year is a poor time for:

1. Pushing for a general tax increase.
2. Intra-party squabbling over offices of prestige and influence in the Legislature.

One Admission

Their attitude on the first point seemed well illustrated by one senator's admission that he "might have to go along with" McKeldin's veto of the maximum-surplus bill, even though he agrees with the bill "in principle."

It would earmark for reduction off the State debt any surplus money over two million dollars. Estimates of this year's surplus run around 15 million, and Gov. McKeldin has said he is counting on it to help balance next year's budget.

Although Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County), majority leader and sponsor of the bill, has declared he will press to override the governor's veto, some fellow Democrats are reluctant to make an issue of it.

They base this reluctance on the belief that if they make only two million dollars of surplus available for balancing the 1957 budget, instead of the 15 million set aside by McKeldin, they must devise a plan to make up the 13 million dollar difference.

That would probably mean increased taxes in an election year, which would be politically impractical, they argue.

Still Rumblings

There still were rumblings of an attempt to unseat Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert) as Senate president late today, but these were much more faint than two weeks ago.

But a source close to Turnbull said the Baltimore County whip had decided to spurn an offer of the presidency in exchange for his support in the budding rebellion. Once again, a prime consideration was the desire to avoid a party split in an election year, said the informant.

Similar reasons were given in the House by members who forecast the re-election of Speaker Luber (D-Balto 5th) without opposition.

Oddly enough, Republicans—outnumbered in the Senate by 21-8 and in the House by 98-25—gave the strongest indications of whipping up any contests in the legislative organization.

There was renewed talk of a move to install Sen. Ramsburg (R-Fredrick) in the Senate minority leadership to succeed Sen. Phoebus (R-Somerset), who took over after Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County resigned last year to become head of the Department of Employment Security.

Both Ramsburg and Phoebus said they are not actively campaigning for the post.

However, Ramsburg adherents said Phoebus was named in 1955 with the understanding that he would step out before the 1956 session and the Frederick County senator would step in.

"Actually, it's a thankless job," said Ramsburg.

"I'm not a candidate for it," said Phoebus. "The only thing I'm a candidate for is Heaven, so you know I must be telling the truth."

Of the 28 Republicans in the House, five have been mentioned most prominently in talk of candidates for the minority leadership, and four of these—Driscoll, Hughes Reed and Cook — are from Allegany County. The other is Del. Berkson (R-Washington).

Swick Receives Suspended Term
